U.S. to Press Anglo Change With Iran

Steps Would Be Taken if Red Dangers Increase

Washington, Aug. 11 (AP)—The United States is prepared to press for a radical change in Britain's policies toward Iran if it appears such a step would help avert the danger of Communist seizure of Iran from the inside.

American officials, facing a new round of consultations with the British on the Iranian situation this week, appeared uncertain today whether political conditions in Iran would offer opportunity for effective action by the western powers. They were hopeful, however, that some steps could be taken fairly quickly.

Intensive talks to date have produced an understanding between Washington and London, informants said, that the best bet for blocking the intrigues of the Communist Tudeh party and of others who might play into Communist hands is to strengthen, if possible, the position of Premier Mohammed Mossadegh.

Would Be Reinforced

American officials privately suggest that if Britain could find a way to relax its economic blockade of Iran and permit Iranian oil to be sold to the outside world, Mossadegh's anti-Communist influence in his badly split country would be reinforced. This is because he would have gained both a political objective and 20 to 30 million dollars of income from stored oil.

Only by a drastic modification of policy, however, could the British permit Iranian oil to flow to world markets.

Driver Arrested Near Wurtsboro; Took Furs, Cash

Liberty, N. Y., Aug. 11 (AP)—A New York city fur dealer was arrested on a highway yesterday and charged with taking $7,750 in furs, jewelry and cash from a resort hotel.

Herman Steinsaltz, 46, of the Bronx, was arraigned here and pleaded innocent to charges of burglary, grand larceny, possession of burglar's tools, and possession of a gun.

He was lodged in the Sullivan county jail for a hearing today. Ferndale state police said Steinsaltz burglarized four rooms in the Lakeside Inn at Ferndale, taking three fur pieces worth $5,000, jewelry worth $2,000 and $750 in cash.

He was caught on Route 17 near Wurtsboro, police said, with the furs still in his car. The jewelry, police said, had been thrown over an embankment when he realized he was being pursued. It was later recovered.

Coroner Rules Barge Captain Is Drowned Accidentally in Rondout

The case of the barge captain who drowned last week in the Rondout Creek became more complex over the weekend after sheriff's office men charged that they found the drowned man's watch and cigarette lighter on the person of William Henry Jones, 60, of 1 Canal street.

Jones, according to previous reports, was the man who was rescued after the boat in which he and Capt. Frank LaVallee were riding capsized in the creek shortly before 11 p. m. Wednesday.

After investigation by Under Sheriff Clayton Vredenburg and county investigator Arthur H. Brown led to the allegation that LaVallee's effects were in the possession of Jones, the sheriff's men with Detective Clarence Brophy of the Kingston police department arrested Jones.

Arraigned on a grand larceny charge before Judge Raymond Mino in city court this morning, Jones waived examination and was ordered held for grand jury action on the charge.

This latest development in the case has not affected a coroner's verdict that LaVallee died of "accidental drowning." Coroner Ernest A. Kelly said this morning.

Body Bled Badly

The body, when recovered Friday evening, was badly bloated from its stay in the water, but bore no marks of violence or accident prior to drowning, the coroner had said.

An autopsy ordered Saturday afternoon by Assistant District Attorney James J. Abernethy revealed that death was due to asphyxiation due to drowning, Coroner Kelly said. Nothing organically wrong was found by the post mortem examination, he said.

The case kept sheriff's office men busy night and day since the boat reportedly capsized Wednesday night.

Efforts to find the body continued without success Wednesday night and all day Thursday. On Friday about 7:45 p. m. the body rose to the surface and was spotted by Cleon Jump of Port Jervis, vice commodore of the Kingston Power Boat Association.

No Identification Marks

The body bore no identification, and although authorities believed it to be that of Capt. LaVallee, the sheriff's office contacted Richard Braard, Sr., of the Jacobus Transportation Company, Inc., main office at 116 John street, New York, who came here Saturday morning.

He made the positive identification of the body as that of Frank LaVallee, 32, captain of the firm's barge, Louise. LaVallee's (Continued on Page 11, Col. 5)

Reds Protest UN Air Raids; Claim Truce Is Bypassed

Communists Accuse Allies of Trying to Bury Armistice; Agree to Recess

Munsan, Korea, Aug. 11 (AP)—The Communists today accused the UN command of attempting to bury Korean armistice negotiations by stepping up air attacks on North Korea and repeatedly requesting recesses in the truce talks.

The 35-minute session at Panmunjom—first in a week—failed to produce any solution in the truce-blocking deadlock over war prisoner exchange.

Despite their protests, the Communists agreed to another recess until Aug. 19.

Gen. Nam Il, senior Red delegate, complained of UN air assaults and declared that "any so-called military pressure on your side will only invite you to miserable defeat."

Hits Long Layoff

He accused the Allies of obstructing peace with repeated recesses—the one upcoming is the third week-long layoff in a row—and said the UN "is attempting to bury these armistice negotiations and is designing to extend the war."

Maj. Gen. William K. Harrison, senior UN delegate, curtly told Nam Il that the Allies will repatriate only 83,000 captured Red Communist soldiers but the UN refuses to force any POW back to Red control. About 100,000 Allied-held POWs and civilian internees have said in screenings that they will resist repatriation.

Harrison listened to Nam Il's complaints and demands for prisoners, then declared:

"Since there is no way in which we can change our position and since it cannot be reconciled with your present demands, there seems to be nothing to discuss."

He said there was no need for daily meetings and suggested the recess. Nam Il agreed.

Chinese Reds Undergo Bomb, Arms Pounding on Hillside

Seoul, Korea, Aug. 11 (AP)—Chinese Communists today dug in on Siberia Hill on the Korean western front under a terrific day-long assault by UN fighter-bombers and pressure from U. S. Marines.

The low, shell-scarred knob east of the Panmunjom truce site has exchanged hands five times in two days. The Reds first seized it from First Marine Division troops before dawn Saturday.

The U. S. Fifth Air Force said Sabre jet pilots today probably destroyed one Russian-made MIG 15 and damaged another in the eighth straight day of jet battles over North Korea. This ran the UN MIG bag for the eighth day to 19 destroyed, one probably destroyed, and 20 damaged.

In today's clash near the Manchurian border, four Sabres fought with four MIGs at 35,000 feet.

A U. S. Eighth Army night communiqué said fighting continued today for the lonely outpost on Siberia Hill. Fight casualties were estimated at 225 killed and 250 wounded.

UN warplanes flew more than 150 sorties (individual flights) against the hill with flaming gasoline, rockets, bombs and machine gun fire.

Eisenhower Meets With Farm Heads

GOP Nominee Also Is to Confer With Dixie Backers — Had Big Day in Gallup

Asks Bigger Scope

Would Expand Social Security to Cover 14 Millions More

Denver, Aug. 11 (AP)—Happy over a friendly pow-wow with 35 American Indian tribes, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower changes pace today to confer with GOP farm leaders and a delegation of Dixie supporters.

The Republican candidate for the White House flew back here last night from Gallup, N. M., where he said he spent one of the most enjoyable days in weeks as guest of honor at the 31st annual inter-tribal Indian ceremonial.

"I thoroughly enjoy that kind of a show," the general told reporters—showing a trace of wistful thought about booking additional relaxing appearances.

But today it was back to more serious business. He arranged to sit down first (noon EST) with a group of backers from eight southern states—some of them representatives from the regular Republican organizations, others from Citizens-for-Eisenhower Clubs in the south.

May Decide Campaign

The conference may decide how extensive a campaign Eisenhower will wage in Dixie in a bid to swing traditionally Democratic states into the GOP column in the November election.

After that session, the general was scheduled to meet with a group of Republican members of the Senate and House, agriculture committees, and other party farm leaders.

That conference underscores the importance the Eisenhower camp attaches to the farm vote. All possible steps are being taken to prevent a repetition of what happened in 1948—when President Truman's victory was credited in large part to the Democrats' success in the farm belt.

Asks Expansion

In another development over the weekend, Eisenhower called for expansion of the Social Security program to cover an additional 14 million persons, and for increased old age assistance grants.

After conferring with three Republican members of the House Ways and Means Committee, Eisenhower issued a statement Saturday saying:

"I am particularly concerned about the present inadequacies of the Social Security law and feel strongly that the law ought to be extended to presently uncovered persons."

Monroney Proposes Both Get War, Other Data From White House

Washington, Aug. 11 (AP)—Sen. A. S. Mike Monroney (D-Okla.) proposed today that the White House offer both presidential nominees a daily briefing on Korea and other international trouble spots.

Monroney, who heads the Democratic National Committee's speakers' bureau, told a reporter that, in the interest of national security, this access to behind-the-scenes information should be broadened even further after the election.

He suggested that the president-elect—whether he is a Republican or a Democrat—be invited to attend conferences on the new budget and other problems to be laid before Congress.

State Reports Tooth Decay Tests Show Kingston Ahead

Tooth decay among elementary school pupils in Newburgh dropped 47 per cent below the Kingston rate in eight years, Dr. Herman Hilleboe, state health commissioner, reported yesterday.

Newburgh children have been drinking fluoridated water since the start of a state experiment while no fluorine was added to Kingston water.

Dr. Hilleboe said his report covers the period from 1944 through the middle of 1952. Kingston was relieved of its role as control city last year, and although fluoridation of the local water system has been considered, no definite action has been taken. The proposal is still under study.

Among children who had drunk fluoridated water since birth, the drop in dental decay was even greater—68 per cent below Kingston, Dr. Hilleboe added.

Newburgh has been adding one part of fluoride to each million parts of water since 1944. In Kingston, 32 miles away, drinking water has not been treated.

Feeling Given Prior to Nomination Like Was Feeling His Way Around

(Associated Press Reporter Don Whitehead covered the opening of the Eisenhower campaign to win the Republican presidential nomination—and he also has followed Stevenson since he won the Democratic presidential nomination. In this story, he contrasts the two presidential candidates in their early campaigns.)

By DON WHITEHEAD

Springfield, Aug. 11 (AP)—This is the year of the amateur versus the pro in American politics.

This fact has been sharply defined in the opening maneuvers of the two presidential candidates—Dwight D. Eisenhower and Adlai E. Stevenson.

In the Republican camp, Eisenhower—the amateur—has surrounded himself with professional politicians wise in the ways of running a national campaign.

Stevenson Takes Unknowns

In the Democratic camp, Stevenson—the professional—is gathering around him amateurs whose names are almost unknown on the national political scene.

This development is only one of a number of sharp contrasts in the manner in which Eisenhower and Stevenson have approached their widely different problems.

These contrasts point up the difference in personality, background, training and temperament of these two distinguished men who will lead their parties into the November election fight.

Judge Knight Holds Lo Dolce Is Not To Be Extradited

Buffalo Man's Presence Sought in Connection With Death of Officer

Buffalo, N. Y., Aug. 11 (AP)—Federal Judge John Knight today refused to order extradition to Italy of Carl G. Lo Dolce in connection with the alleged murder of OSS Maj. William V. Hollohan because Italy "was not then physically in control of the place of the crimes."

Italy had asked extradition of the 30-year-old former army sergeant from Rochester in the killing of Hollohan, his commanding officer in the Office of Strategic Services.

Hollohan was slain during a secret mission behind German lines in northern Italy in December, 1944.

Treaty Not Effective

Judge Knight ruled that the treaty of 1868 providing for extradition was not effective inasmuch as the place where the crime was committed was occupied then by German armies.

Also accused of being involved was former Lt. Aldo Icardi of Pittsburgh, a third OSS man on the mission. Italy has made no move to extradite Icardi since a move in Federal Court in Pittsburgh was dismissed in early April. Both Icardi and Lo Dolce say they are innocent.

In a 13-page opinion Judge Knight reviewed the circumstances surrounding the murder.

Calls Crime Gruesome

He described the crime as one "so gruesome as to be almost unbelievable were they not supported by the written and oral confessions of Lo Dolce and the testimony of numerous other individuals."

Judge Knight's ruling climaxed a long legal proceeding that began last March when Italy obtained a warrant under which Lo Dolce was taken into federal custody.

He was released here April 3 on $5,000 bail.

He is reported under medical care at veterans' hospital. His condition could not be learned immediately.

Latter Says 'Special' Is Not Needed

Sparkman Goes Along With Economic Boss; Higher Retail Prices Are Assured

Hits at 'Fraud'

Farm Bureau Official Attacks Whole Idea in Sharp Statement

Washington, Aug. 11 (AP)—Two of President Truman's top economic chiefs were at odds today over whether Congress should be called into special session to tighten price controls.

In the latest repercussion to price boss Ellis Arnall's recommendation for such a session, Economic Stabilizer Roger Putnam said last night he saw no need for it unless prices keep climbing at a rapid rate.

And Sen. John Sparkman of Alabama, the Democratic Vice-Presidential nominee, said he felt this is not the proper time for a special session.

Other opposition was voiced by a spokesman for the American Farm Bureau Federation and by Rep. Jacob Javits (R-Lib. N. Y.).

Higher Prices Ahead

In the meantime, new standards being set up by Arnall's agency, the Office of Price Stabilization (OPS), apparently assured higher retail prices as a result of the steel, aluminum and copper price boosts recently granted.

All of these developments were continuing ripples from the storm kicked up over the steel price dispute, settled July 24. The Office of Defense Mobilization (ODM), on that date, approved a half-billion-dollar price increase for steel—$5.20 a ton for carbon steel and a $5.65 average for all steel.

That ended the 54-day steel strike—with a price boost opposed by Arnall, Putnam and President Truman and defended by Charles E. Wilson, who resigned as ODM chief early in the dispute after the requested increase had been denied.

Arnall called on Truman last Wednesday. He handed in his resignation and urged the President to order a special session of Congress. Truman took no action on the resignation, but said he was considering a special session.

'Not Needed Now'

In New York, Putnam said on an NBC radio-television program he saw no sign of a "runaway" on food prices. He said he believes a special session is not needed now, but added:

"If prices go up in the next month as fast as they have gone up in the past month, yes."

Sparkman, appearing on an NBC television show from Washington last night, said he finds the present price control law inadequate. But of Arnall's proposal he said:

"We are in the middle of a campaign and I don't believe we could accomplish much. It would run into a political situation."

Farm Bureau's Attack

The powerful Farm Bureau's secretary-treasurer, Roger Fleming, attacked the whole idea of special congressional action. In a statement for nation-wide radio delivery he called it:

"An obvious attempt to hitchhike a publicity ride on the drouth troubles of farmers and to divert the public's attention away from recent government actions to boost wages and prices."

Fleming added:

"Rather than admit the truth about the fraud of price and wage controls to the American people, OPS officials see an urgent need for tighter price controls to keep up the government's free spending fiscal policy which is feeding the fires of inflation and forcing some prices up."

Javits wrote Arnall that a special session would be futile without a change in farm price policy, which Javits called "built-in official inflation."

Feeling Given Prior to Nomination Ike Was Feeling His Way Around

(Associated Press Reporter Don Whitehead covered the opening of the Eisenhower campaign to win the Republican presidential nomination—and he also has followed Stevenson since he won the Democratic presidential nomination. In this story, he contrasts the two presidential candidates in their early campaigns.)

By DON WHITEHEAD Springfield, Aug. 11 (AP)—This is the year of the amateur versus the pro in American politics.

This fact has been sharply defined in the opening maneuvers of the two presidential candidates—Dwight D. Eisenhower and Adlai E. Stevenson.

In the Republican camp, Eisenhower—the amateur—has surrounded himself with professional politicians wise in the ways of running a national campaign.

Stevenson Takes Unknowns In the Democratic camp, Stevenson—the professional—is gathering around him amateurs whose names are almost unknown on the national political scene.

This development is only one of a number of sharp contrasts in the manner in which Eisenhower and Stevenson have approached their widely different problems.

These contrasts point up the difference in personality, background, training and temperament of these two distinguished men who will lead their parties into the November election fight.

State Reports Tooth Decay Tests Show Kingston Ahead

Tooth decay among elementary school pupils in Newburgh dropped 47 per cent below the Kingston rate in eight years, Dr. Herman Hilleboe, state health commissioner, reported yesterday.

Newburgh children have been drinking fluoridated water since the start of a state experiment while no fluorine was added to Kingston water.

D. Hilleboe said his report covers the period from 1944 through the middle of 1952.

Kingston was relieved of its role as control city last year, and although fluoridation of the local water system has been considered, no definite action has been taken. The proposal is still under study.

Among children who had drunk fluoridated water since birth, the drop in dental decay was even greater—66 per cent below Kingston, Dr. Hilleboe added.

Newburgh has been adding one part of fluoride to each million parts of water since 1944. In Kingston, 32 miles away, drinking water has not been treated.

Dr. Hilleboe said that careful examinations during the Kingston-Newburgh survey revealed "absolutely no harmful effects from drinking fluoridated water."

The commissioner noted that water fluoridation was practiced in 13 New York communities with an approximate total population of 300,743. In addition to Newburgh, they are: New Rochelle, Bronxville, Pelham, Pelham Manor, North Pelham, Eastchester, Tuckahoe, Olean, Westfield, Schenectady, Carle Place and Gloversville.

Fourteen communities with a total population of 1,290,884 plan to begin treating their water soon. They are: Larchmont, Hudson, Hoosick Falls, Rochester, Troy, Amsterdam, Poughkeepsie, Penn Yan, Yonkers, Fulton, Bath, Riverhead, Elmira and Buffalo.

Latter Says 'Special' Is Not Needed

Sparkman Goes Along With Economic Boss; Higher Retail Prices Are Assured

Hits at 'Fraud'

Farm Bureau Official Attacks Whole Idea in Sharp Statement

Washington, Aug. 11 (AP)—Two of President Truman's top economic chiefs were at odds today over whether Congress should be called into special session to tighten price controls.

In the latest repercussion to price boss Ellis Arnall's recommendation for such a session, Economic Stabilizer Roger Putnam said last night he saw no need for it unless prices keep climbing at a rapid rate.

And Sen. John Sparkman of Alabama, the Democratic Vice-Presidential nominee, said he felt this is not the proper time for a special session.

Other opposition was voiced by a spokesman for the American Farm Bureau Federation and by Rep. Jacob Javits (R-Lib. N. Y.).

Higher Prices Ahead In the meantime, new standards being set up by Arnall's agency, the Office of Price Stabilization (OPS), apparently assured higher retail prices as a result of the steel, aluminum and copper price boosts recently granted.

All of these developments were continuing ripples from the storm kicked up over the steel price dispute, settled July 24. The Office of Defense Mobilization (ODM), on that date, approved a half-billion-dollar price increase for steel—$5.20 a ton for carbon steel and a $5.65 average for all steel.

That ended the 54-day steel strike—with a price boost opposed by Arnall, Putnam and President Truman and defended by Charles E. Wilson, who resigned as ODM chief early in the dispute after the required increase had been denied.

Arnall called on Truman last Wednesday. He handed in his resignation and urged the President to order a special session of Congress. Truman took no action on the resignation but said he was considering a special session.

'Not Needed Now' In New York, Putnam said on an NBC radio-television program he saw no sign of "a runaway" on food prices. He said he believes a special session "is not needed now, but added:

"If prices go up in the next month as fast as they have gone up in the past month, yes."

Sparkman, appearing on an NBC television show from Washington last night, said he finds the present price control law inadequate. But of Arnall's proposal he said:

"We are in the middle of a campaign and I don't believe we could accomplish much. It would run into a political situation."

Farm Bureau's Attack The powerful Farm Bureau's secretary-treasurer, Roger Fleming, attacked the whole idea of special congressional action. In a statement for nationwide radio delivery he called it:

"An obvious attempt to hitchhike a publicity ride on the drouth troubles of farmers and to divert the public's attention away from recent government actions to boost wages and prices."

Fleming added: "Rather than admit the truth about the fraud of price and wage controls to the American people, OPS officials see an urgent need for tighter price controls to cover up the government's free spending fiscal policy which is feeding the fires of inflation and forcing some prices up."

Javits wrote Arnall that a special session would be futile without a change in farm price policy, which Javits called "built-in official inflation."

Support for Eisenhower Norfolk, Va., Aug. 11 (AP)—The Norfolk Ledger-Dispatch today announced its support of General Dwight D. Eisenhower's free spending. The Ledger-Dispatch supported Franklin D. Roosevelt in his four campaigns for the presidency but did not support Harry S. Truman in 1948.

Arrested on a charge of driving at a "dangerous speed" was Harry Albert Carpenter, 29, of Poughkeepsie, who was arraigned before Justice of the Peace P. A. Lyons of Marlborough. He pleaded guilty and was sentenced to pay a $15 fine or spend five days in jail, state police said.

Troopers said the three cars involved included one driven by Higgins, in which his family were riding; one driven by Carpenter, in which his wife, Margaret, was a passenger, and a third driven by S. Garrett Wygant, 52, of Marlborough, in which no personal injuries were reported. The Higgins and Carpenter vehicles were considerably damaged and had to be towed from the scene, troopers reported.

Returning pilots said great clouds of black smoke hung over the building area, which covers a mountain side.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Aug. 11 (AP)—Selling pressure on oils and rails today in the stock market held back a moderate advance.

Most strength was concentrated in the motors with quiet support scattered throughout the list.

Gains ran from fractions to between 1 and 2 points. On the downside the spread was much wider.

Northern Pacific Railroad, which has heavy holdings in the Williston Basin as does Amerasia, was off between 1 and 2 points.

Chrysler, out last week with a highly encouraging earnings report, was still a favorite of buyers today and was outstanding in that division. General Motors, ex-dividend $1, was up more than a point.

Steels remained steady as did air lines, motion pictures, and building materials. Distilling issues were higher. The remainder of the market was mixed.

The stock market last week was quietly higher with the Associated Press average of 60 stocks establishing a new 1952 high of $109.80 on Thursday and then declining a dime on Friday in a mixed market.

Curb stocks were largely higher and moderately active today. Advancing were Sherwin-Williams, Thiokol, Canada Southern Oils, and Devon Leduc Oils.

Raytheon was under pressure after the company announced that in all probability no dividends can be paid on common in the near future. The company hasn't paid a dividend on common since September, 1945.

Corporate bonds were steady today, and U. S. Governments in the over the counter market also were steady.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Aug. 11 (AP)—Selling pressure on oils and rails today in the stock market held back a moderate advance.

Most strength was concentrated in the motors with quiet support scattered throughout the list.

Gains ran from fractions to between 1 and 2 points. On the downside the spread was much wider.

Northern Pacific Railroad, which has heavy holdings in the Williston Basin as does Amerasia, was off between 1 and 2 points.

Chrysler, out last week with a highly encouraging earnings report, was still a favorite of buyers today and was outstanding in that division. General Motors, ex-dividend $1, was up more than a point.

Steels remained steady as did air lines, motion pictures, and building materials. Distilling issues were higher. The remainder of the market was mixed.

The stock market last week was quietly higher with the Associated Press average of 60 stocks establishing a new 1952 high of $109.80 on Thursday and then declining a dime on Friday.

Curb stocks were largely higher and moderately active today. Advancing were Sherwin-Williams, Thiokol, Canada Southern Oils, and Devon Leduc Oils.

Raytheon was under pressure after the company announced that in all probability no dividend can be paid on common in the near future. The company hasn't paid a dividend on common since September, 1945.

Corporate bonds were steady today, and U. S. Governments in the over the counter market also were steady.

Mechanic Helps Save Boat Pilot's Life

Hudson, N. Y., Aug. 11 (AP)—Quick thinking by a motorboat mechanic may have saved the life of driver Homer Conine, 21, of Syracuse.

There the mechanic, George Hookman of Champlain, grabbed Conine's arm and slowed the flow of blood. They were rushed to a hospital where Conine was reported in fair condition.

Southern States
Unhood the Klan

By HENRY LESENE

NEA Special Correspondent
Raleigh, N. C.—(NEA)—Figuratively—if not literally—the post-World War 2 Ku Klux Klan has taken its last ride.

There is the possibility that the pattern of masked terrorism may crop up somewhere else at another time, but a knockout blow has been dealt the hooded order by wholesale arrests, indictments and road sentences—with probably more still to come—in the Southeastern corner of North Carolina.

"Finis" has been written to the Klan's activities in the Carolinas by the sentencing of the Imperial Wizard Thomas L. Hamilton, pudgy, bespectacled former grocer of Leesville, S. C., to four years in prison—the maximum sentence possible under a conspiracy charge to which he pleaded guilty.

Scores of other Klansmen face sentences of from one to two years. They grew out of the largest mass trials in North Carolina history following a two-year reign of terror by Klansmen. In the last few years every South Atlantic state has had its Klan problems, although the Klan violence has been confined to a few relatively small areas.

Georgia, where both the post-World War 1 and the post-World War 2 Klans were spawned atop Stone Mountain, was the first state where the current Klan became active immediately after the war. The movement there, however, has gradually been eliminated.

In the summer of 1949 a wave of floggings, cross-burnings and masked terrorism struck the area surrounding Birmingham, Ala. This was ended by a counter-wave of public indignation, wholesale arrests and quick passage of an anti-mask law by the Alabama legislature which was in session then. Since then three other southern states—Florida, Georgia and South Carolina—have passed similar anti-Klan laws.

The revived Klan was the same as its predecessors in that it was anti-Jew, anti-Catholic and anti-Negro. But victims of recent Klan violence had generally been white men and women whom the Klan accused of such things as immorality, drinking, and "neglecting" their families.

The Klan activities in North

Carolina centered largely in Columbus county, a lumber and tobacco-growing section. There were more than 100 arrests when the crackdowns finally came.

The first break came a few months ago when the Federal Bureau of Investigation rounded up a number of alleged Klansmen accused of taking a white man and woman across the state line into South Carolina and flogging them. A few weeks later the Columbus county sheriff, aided by state agents, arrested a number of other Klansmen in another flogging case.

In the Federal case, tried at Wilmington, Judge Don Gillam sentenced six defendants to prison, put four others on probation and freed another. One, the ex-cyclops of a Klavern and a township constable at the same time, was sentenced to five years—to start at the end of a two-year sentence in an earlier state case.

Later, wholesale arrests, a round hundred, included Hamilton. North Carolina agents went across the state line to nab him on a conspiracy charge. Hamilton for the last few years had lived in Leesville, a small town between Columbia, S. C. and Augusta, Ga.

The state of North Carolina charged that by his activities in Columbus county he set in motion acts of violence and terrorism. Hamilton surrendered and pleaded guilty to conspiracy in the flogging of a Negro woman.

The 45-year-old Hamilton's so-called "Association of Carolinas Klans" first broke into the headlines in 1950 when Klansmen raided a Negro night club near Myrtle Beach, S. C., adjacent to Columbus county. A gunfight ensued and in the melee a Klansman who wore his police uniform under his robe was fatally wounded and abandoned by his companions.

Klan demonstrations or cross-burnings staged by Hamilton have been frequent in various parts of South Carolina in the last two years. Since the passage of an anti-mask law by the South Carolina legislature, however, these demonstrations have had to be held on private property with the consent of the owner.

The only other Southern state where there has been much Klan activity in recent months is Florida, where the secret organization is headed by Bill Hendrix, whose organization has worked closely with Hamilton's.

Sessions Planned
Today to Avert
Railroad Strike

New York, Aug. 11 (AP)—Federal mediators will hold separate sessions today with representatives of the railroad brotherhoods and of the New York Central Railroad in an effort to avert a strike on the Central's lines east of Buffalo.

A strike had been set for today (1 p. m., EST) by three of the four brotherhoods, but union officials agreed Friday to renewed federal mediation and said they would postpone the strike "for a reasonable period."

A two-year old dispute concerns 58 remaining union claims and grievances over working rules. These include claims for back pay, based on differing interpretations of the working rules. Talk of an imminent strike started more than a week ago.

The National Mediation Board failed in efforts to achieve a settlement in 1950.

Mediator Hopeful

Francis A. O'Neil, Jr., chairman of the mediation board, said yesterday at his summer home at Manassas, N. J., that he was hopeful of averting a strike.

He and Leverett Edwards, a board member, planned to contact the brotherhood and railroad representatives today and then arrange meetings—probably with the brotherhoods first.

The three unions that have threatened strikes are the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen and the Order of Railway Conductors.

A fourth, the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, is a party to the dispute, but is deterred from striking by a federal court probationary order stemming from a series of "sick strikes" in 1950.

Claims Fasting Record

Palermo, Sicily, Aug. 11 (AP)—An Indian fakir, Burmah, left his glass cage last night and claimed to have set a new fasting record of 71 days, three hours and three minutes without food. Burmah said he had entered the cage on May 31. The scales showed he lost 64 pounds during his fast. The old starvation record, he said, was 67 days, 16 hours and six minutes, held by a Tunisian named Raykan.

Polio Situation
Highland, N. Y., Aug. 6, 1952
Editor, The Freeman:

I am writing in regard to the polio situation in our local counties.

I cannot understand why each hospital cannot sacrifice at least one nurse to send to the Polio Center at Vassar Brothers Hospital in Poughkeepsie to help out in the emergency. Having a son who was a victim of polio in 1950, I can speak from experience of the excellent care given all the polio patients at Vassar Brothers Hospital, where he was a patient for eight weeks before being transferred to the Rehabilitation Hospital at West Haverstraw.

Had it not been for the excellent care given him in the active stage of polio, his recovery would not have been nearly so complete. The nurses and doctors are trained in the treatment and care of polio and they have the needed equipment to care for them. One cannot praise the Polio Center at Vassar Hospital too much.

Won't you see what you can do to send at least one nurse to the Polio Center so that it can be reopened and those unfortunates who are stricken with the dread disease may have the proper care. Thank you.

Art Exhibit

Editor, The Freeman:

Of all the events of this well planned Tercentennial of our city, the most unique, in my opinion, is the Art Exhibit now being shown at the George Washington School. It is at once a rare collection of seventy-seven extremely good—if not great works—of our own Hudson River School of Art, and, since they are nearly all local scenes and subjects a pictorial history of early life and times in the Hudson River Valley.

Those who have not yet visited the exhibit cannot realize that they are missing a prized opportunity to see what is probably the best artistic treat of all time in a city of this size. A treat at your own door for the amazingly low price of thirty-five cents. Would you call it a Dutch Treat?

Hotel Robber Caught

New York, Aug. 11 (AP)—Police and a night clerk teamed up early today to capture a man quoted as saying he had robbed 12 Manhattan hotels recently to support his wife and three children. Southern States Unhood the Klan

By HENRY LESENE
NEA Special Correspondent
Raleigh, N. C.—(NEA)—Figuratively—if not literally—the post-World War 2 Ku Klux Klan has taken its last ride.

There is the possibility that the pattern of masked terrorism may crop up somewhere else at another time, but a knockout blow has been dealt the hooded order by wholesale arrests, indictments and road sentences—with probably more still to come—in the South-eastern corner of North Carolina. "Finis" has been written to the Klan's activities in the Carolinas by the sentencing of the Imperial Wizard Thomas L. Hamilton, pudgy, bespectacled former grocer of Leesville, S. C., to four years in prison—the maximum sentence possible under a conspiracy charge to which he pleaded guilty.

Scores of other Klansmen face sentences of from one to two years. They grew out of the largest mass trials in North Carolina history following a two-year reign of terror by Klansmen.

In the last few years every South Atlantic state has had its Klan problems, although the Klan-type violence has been confined to a few relatively small areas.

Georgia, where both the post-World War 1 and the post-World War 2 Klans were spawned out Stone Mountain, was the first state where the current Klan became active immediately after the war. The movement there, however, has gradually been eliminated.

In the summer of 1949 a wave of floggings, cross-burnings and masked terrorism struck the area surrounding Birmingham, Ala. This was ended by a counter-wave of public indignation, wholesale arrests and quick passage of an anti-mask law by the Alabama legislature which was in session then. Since then three other southern states—Florida, Georgia and South Carolina—have passed similar anti-Klan laws.

The revived Klan was the same as its predecessors in that it was anti-Jew, anti-Catholic and anti-Negro. But victims of recent Klan violence had generally been white men and women whom the Klan accused of such things as immorality, drinking, and "neglecting" their families.

The Klan activities in North

Carolina centered largely in Columbus county, a lumber and tobacco-growing section. There were more than 100 arrests when the crackdown finally came.

The first break came a few months ago when the Federal Bureau of Investigation rounded up a number of alleged Klansmen accused of taking a white man and woman across the state line into South Carolina and flogging them. A few weeks later the Columbus county sheriff, aided by state agents, arrested a number of other Klansmen in another flogging case.

In the Federal case, tried at Wilmington, Judge Don Gilliam sentenced six defendants to prison, put four others on probation and freed another. One, the exalted cyclops of a klavern and a township constable at the same time, was sentenced to five years—to start at the end of a two-year sentence in an earlier state case.

Later, wholesale arrests, a round hundred, included Hamilton. North Carolina agents went across the state line to nab him on a conspiracy charge. Hamilton for the last few years had lived in Leesville, a small town between Columbia, S. C. and Augusta, Ga. The state of North Carolina charged that by his activities in Columbus county he set in motion acts of violence and terrorism. Hamilton surrendered and pleaded guilty to conspiracy in the flogging of a Negro woman.

The 45-year-old Hamilton's so-called "Association of Carolinas Klans" first broke into the headlines in 1950 when Klansmen raided a Negro night club near Myrtle Beach, S. C., adjacent to Columbus county. A gunfight ensued and in the melee a Klansman who wore his police uniform under his robe was fatally wounded and abandoned by his companions.

Klan demonstrations or cross-burnings staged by Hamilton have been frequent in various parts of South Carolina in the last two years. Since the passage of an anti-mask law by the South Carolina legislature, however, these demonstrations have had to be held on private property with the consent of the owner.

The only other Southern state where there has been much Klan activity in recent months is Florida, where the secret organization is headed by Bill Hendrix, whose organization has worked closely with Hamilton's.

Sessions Planned Today to Avert Railroad Strike

New York, Aug. 11 (AP)—Federal mediators will hold separate sessions today with representatives of the railroad brotherhoods and of the New York Central Railroad in an effort to avert a strike on the Central's lines east of Buffalo.

A strike had been set for today (1 p. m., EST) by three of the four brotherhoods, but union officials agreed Friday to renewed federal mediation and said they would postpone the strike "for a reasonable period."

A two-year old dispute concerns 58 remaining union claims and grievances over working rules. These include claims for back pay, based on differing interpretations of the working rules. Talk of an imminent strike started more than a week ago.

The National Mediation Board failed in efforts to achieve a settlement in 1950.

Mediator Hopeful

Franz A. O'Neil, Jr., chairman of the mediation board, said yesterday at his summer home at Manassas, N. J., that he was hopeful of averting a strike.

He and Leverett Edwards, a board member, planned to contact the brotherhood and railroad representatives today and then arranged meetings—probably with the brotherhoods first.

The three unions that have threatened strikes are the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginmen and the Order of Railway Conductors.

A fourth, the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, is a party to the dispute, but is deterred from striking by a federal court probatory order stemming from a series of "sick strikes" in 1950.

Claims Fasting Record

Palermo, Sicily, Aug. 11 (AP)—An Indian fakir, Burmah, left his glass cage last night and claimed to have set a new fasting record of 71 days, three hours and three minutes without food. Burmah said he had entered the cage on May 31. The scales showed he lost 64 pounds during his fast. The old starvation record, he said, was 67 days, 16 hours and six minutes, held by a Tunisian named Raykan.

GRAVITY OF TROUBLE IN IRAN

Three recent developments in Europe and the Middle East deserve attention from the standpoint of mutual defense. They are not all directly related to each other, but they each bear importantly on the delicate balance of power in that part of the world.

First is the news from Washington, backed up by reports from European capitals, that things could be better with the North Atlantic Treaty Organization program for rearming Europe.

It appears that original goals for some countries will not be met. England, caught in another of a series of economic crises, has indicated her defense production program will have to be rejigged in favor of more consumer goods.

France, too, is having serious money trouble, what with carrying on an expensive war in Indo-China, among other things, and it seems all too likely that she will not be able to meet her NATO quotas.

But while the material substance of the European defense program may be thinning out, the moral side has gotten a boost with the ratifying by the United States Senate and the British Parliament of the peace contract with West Germany.

That's encouraging, although it still remains for the French and West German governments to ratify. Many Frenchmen still have a deep fear of Germany, and of the independence and potential strength which the contract would give the Bonn government.

Some of the German Social Democrats want even greater strength than would be provided under the contract and may try to hold out for it before ratifying.

There may be some rough sledding ahead in these two countries, but the beginning made in England and in this country marks the way and sets a strong example to be followed.

Meantime, far away to the southeast in Iran, there has developed a situation whose potential seriousness to the Western nations cannot be underestimated.

Iran, the oil-vital country directly bordering Russia on the south, has set up a strongly nationalistic government which is voicing strong opinions against both England and the United States.

Unofficial demands have been made for this country to withdraw both its military advisers and officials of our Point Four program, which we were counting on to make us friends. And now the Iranians have restated their claim to Bahrain Island, in the Persian Gulf, which is under British protection and whose rich oil lands are operated by American capital.

If Russia should take over Iran it would mean she had divided Europe from the Far East, had obtained for herself warm-water ports and the rich Iranian oil fields, and was in a position to seriously threaten American oil holdings in that part of the world.

The moderate, independent London newspaper, "The Observer," says on the subject: "Of all the countries in the world Persia (Iran) seems most likely to fall under Communist domination by the Russians in the near future . . . it is not exaggerating to say that the danger of events leading to a third world war is greater in Persia than in Germany, Yugoslavia, Korea, or Indo-China."

Those are serious words from a thoughtful and respected newspaper. Surely there still is time and a way to deal with Iran along lines which can lead to peace instead of war.

OBSCURED VISION

Obscured vision was a factor in one out of every eight of the fatal automobile accidents last year, according to the National Safety Council.

Nearly half of the visual obstructions were rain, snow or sleet on the windshield. A fourth of the obstructions were trees, buildings and other things along the highway or adjacent to it. The remaining fourth resulted from parked and moving cars.

Glare from headlights or the sun was reported infrequently. Out of 20 states reporting interference with vision, 11 reported

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

CASTLE GARDEN

My father was an immigrant from Bialystok which was then in Russian Poland. I thought of that the other day when I received a pamphlet from our park department in New York with illustrations showing how they had beautified Battery Park. That was the first bit of America that my father saw when he landed on these shores from a steerage boat.

In his day, an old fortress there was called "Castle Garden," and the immigrants passed through it in hordes. That was when this country was in need of population and encouraged those who were hungry or frightened to come to America.

The most fantastic stories were told in Europe about the United States. To the immigrants, such as my father, it was a "goldene medina"—a "kingdom of gold." And literally, it was such, for while they lived in slums and worked unbelievably hard, their plight was better than anything they had known in the old country. And that is why they came here.

My father was a refugee from a pogrom. He ran away from social, economic and spiritual deprivation. He wanted to worship God according to the traditions of his ancestors. He was a devoted religious man, steeped in the lore of his faith, incapable of understanding life without it. Bread one could earn anywhere; liberty was hard to come by in his day.

Millions came, as he did, to build a new life in this country. I was brought up in this environment of hopeful people. They found life tough, particularly the adjustments of language and customs. And they suffered heartaches as their children moved away from them spiritually in the assimilation processes then catalyzing the sons and daughters of immigrants into Americans.

All of us were at least bi-lingual then. We spoke what was called, the mother tongue, Yiddish, Russian, Polish, Italian, German, and what not. And we also spoke English, which our parents did not know, but which we got in the public schools and on the sidewalks. And there, too, we learned about the United States, its customs, its traditions, its institutions.

The children of those immigrants, first generation Americans, were jealous of their privileges. They were reared to regard the United States as a Promised Land. They were inspired in the schools to patriotic fervor. They were intolerant of anyone who even suggested that any other country could be equal to the United States. This was their country.

In later years, when times were better and young people went through school and college without hardships, when the third generation was living on the fat stored by their immigrant ancestors, they could not quite grasp the intensity of the emotions of the immigrants of the period between 1848 and 1890 for this country. The new generation were complainers; nothing was good enough for them. But the old folks, they knew where they came from and why they were thankful.

My father, never learned English. He lived in a ghetto atmosphere by choice. He preferred to be among his own kind and regarded it as a privilege to be able to do that without fear. His greatest joy was the free practice of his religion without danger or shame or humiliation. Yet, he voted in every election and devoted himself to an understanding of the issues and the personalities about which he read in the Yiddish newspapers which then flourished as excellent journals. He was an independent in politics, as were so many immigrants like himself. That was before the politicians welded them into political blocs.

I am sure that no immigrant in those days ever thought of himself as being part of a minority. They would not have known what it meant. They were Americans. To have called my father "a minority," would have been as insulting as to call him a sheenie. He had run away from Europe because there he was part of a minority; he came here because in America all people were Americans, all belonged to the same nation; all were equal in the eyes of the government. My father, the rabbi, and Father Louis, the priest, our neighbor and friend, we were all the same kind of people only we worshipped the same God differently. That he could understand—but minority, pfui, that would have reminded him of the old country. That was no good!

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

THE AGING PROCESS

Now that there are more elderly people in the world than any other single group, the elderly themselves, their families and family physicians are giving the matter of care of this group thorough study.

One of the first thoughts in treatment of the elderly is to help them to keep up their morale. Once they feel that they are too old to do any physical or mental work, they lose their interest in work and in people. It is the feeling that they are still of use to their family and to the community that helps to keep them going.

However, although their morale must be maintained, they should be made to realize that, notwithstanding their desire and willingness to be useful, they are really aging, as do all human beings, and must not attempt the physical or mental tasks of their younger days.

In various parts of this and other countries, surveys of elderly patients in hospital are being made. This is with the idea of making sure that hospital treatment is necessary and more beneficial than home or rest-home nursing and treatment.

In the British Medical Annual, Dr. Marjory J. Warren states that the follow-up of surveys of the aging in hospital is most important as "there can be no general improvement until there is a better understanding of the needs of the elderly sick patient and a greater knowledge of the physiology (body working) and psychology (brain and emotional workings) of old age."

"It must be fully recognized that senescence is the normal process of aging and that this is a general, a gradual and a slow process. It consists of a 'running down' of the human organism, with lessening of physical strength and a tendency to slower movement, and to less activity; with a lessening of the sharpness of the senses, a lessening in the powers of mental concentration and a desire for longer periods of rest with more time to reminisce than to become interested in new subjects."

The thought, then, for those interested in care of the elderly is to remember that the aging process is gradual, not sudden. Any sudden change is most likely to be due to some ailment or disease, not to the aging process itself.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—The question of using just exactly the right ingredients of Harry-Trumanism in the coming presidential campaign is one of the most delicate problems facing Adlai Stevenson et al.

They can use too much whistle-stopping and get the same result that H.S.T. got in Missouri last week when his candidate for the Senate was snowed under. Or they can use too little and run the risk of getting Mr. Truman score.

There has been no comparable situation since 1928 when Herbert Hoover, then secretary of commerce in the Coolidge cabinet, ran for president ostensibly with Coolidge's blessing. Actually there was much bad blood between them, as there's always likely to be when the old monarch watches young royalty reach for the throne.

There's been no bad blood between Truman and Stevenson—so far. But there could be. Unquestionably the President was piqued when Stevenson held back, at first refused to run. Unquestionably also, it was smart tactics on Adlai's part. He had to get away from the idea that he was Truman's man.

Now, however, the governor is up against the almost immediate problem of deciding just how much to use Mr. Truman's notable talents as a campaigner. Secret Oil Deals

An amazing deal whereby some of the major American oil companies agreed not to operate in competition with the British in the Middle East, and whereby all companies pooled the petroleum pie in Venezuela is revealed in the secret oil report of the Federal Trade Commission which Sen. John Sparkman has urged the White House to publish.

In the Middle East, for instance, the Royal Dutch-Shell Company (British-Dutch) got together with the Gulf Oil Company, dominated by the Mellon family of Pittsburgh, to pool their control over 1,250,000,000 barrels of Kuwait oil over a 12-year period.

Likewise, continues the Federal Trade Commission's secret report, "Under the Anglo-Iranian-Jersey Standard-Socony contracts, Anglo-Iranian turned over to the two American companies 1,300,000,000 barrels of Kuwait-Iran oil over a 20-year contract period."

"Thus these contracts result in the division of the production of Kuwait and Iran between the buyers and the sellers, and in effect, give them mutual and continuing interests in that production over a period of years," continued the Federal Trade Commission.

"The significance of the contracts as instruments for the control of the Middle East oil is further evidenced by the provisions restricting and controlling the marketing of oil."

East of Suez

The report then tells how the Gulf Oil Company agrees not to sell its oil "east of Suez" in competition with the British-Dutch combine, and how Standard of N. J. and Socony could sell "not more than 5 per cent east of Suez."

"Jersey Standard and Socony, under the first purchase agreement," stated the FTC report, "were to distribute their oil in Europe and North and West Africa. Socony, under the second purchase agreement, was to import its oil into the United States. In short, under these agreements, the three parties agreed upon the markets into which this oil was to flow."

"The Federal Trade Commission also goes into interesting detail regarding the British-American-Dutch campaign to preach oil conservation 'at a time when a rising flood of international production threatened to depress world prices.'"

Equally interesting is the story of joint oil control in Venezuela, where originally the Mellon family's Gulf Oil predominated along with Rockefeller's Standard of New Jersey.

"In the mid-1930's," states the FTC report, "it was evident that the impact of new production upon the world petroleum markets would concern all of the international oil companies, particularly Standard and Shell. Accordingly, the various subsidiaries of Standard, Shell, and Gulf entered into agreements designed to attain the following objectives:

"1. The virtual elimination of Gulf as an independent factor in Venezuela. This was accomplished by the transformation of the Mene Grande Oil Company, Gulf's operating subsidiary in Venezuela, into a joint enterprise, owned and controlled by Gulf, Shell and Standard (N. J.), and by the attendant surrender by Gulf of valuable management prerogatives. Two so-called sale of oil agreements were the principal medium for this transformation."

"2. The control and regulation of the development of the newly discovered eastern Venezuelan oil fields. This was accomplished partly by the re-creation of Mene Grande as a joint enterprise, partly by the production quota system, and partly by the merging of a major portion of the eastern Venezuelan holdings of Mene Grande and of Standard (N. J.) into a joint enterprise."

"The Justice Department has now called a special grand jury to probe allegations that American oil companies may be violating the law by combining with the British and Dutch. However, it appears doubtful that the Sherman Antitrust Act has been violated, since the oil operations have taken place outside the United States."

McInerney Thinks Non-Communist Affidavit Should Be Given More Teeth as Regards Labor

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Aug. 11—The law relating to non-Communist affidavits required from labor-union officers should be strengthened rather than repealed, in the opinion of James M. McInerney, assistant attorney general at the Department of Justice.

A recent "staff report" of the Senate subcommittee on labor advocated that the non-Communist affidavit requirement be stricken from the law, because it is being circumvented by Communist sympathizers, and this correspondent agreed why the Department of Justice wasn't prosecuting the evaders.

Mr. McInerney writes to call attention to a statement furnished the Senate committee earlier this year conceding the difficulties of prosecution but pointing out how loopholes in the law could be plugged.

Mr. McInerney told the Senate committee that because the present law is couched in the present tense and the maker of an affidavit merely is required to swear that he "is not a member" of the Communist party and that he "does not believe, etc.," it is a simple matter "for an individual to discontinue, formally, the prohibited membership, affiliation and conduct and execute the prescribed affidavit on the next day and thus circumvent the law."

Mr. McInerney confirms that there is in existence a statute which can be used to prosecute evaders under the present law, but that the difficulties of getting satisfactory evidence are multi-fold. The law provides that "whoever in any matter within the jurisdiction of any department or agency of the United States knowingly and wilfully falsifies, conceals or covers up by any trick, scheme, or device a material fact, or makes any false, fictitious or fraudulent statements or representations, or makes or uses any false writing or document knowing the same to contain any false, fictitious or fraudulent statement or entry, shall be fined not more than $10,000 or imprisoned not more than five years, or both."

The Department of Justice further reveals that during the past year 68 cases involving suspected false affidavits have been referred to U. S. attorneys in 19 different judicial districts. Almost all of these are still under active and continuing investigation. Fourteen have been presented already to grand juries, and in 13 cases the maker of the alleged false affidavit has himself been brought before the grand jury. One has been indicted.

"It is apparent," writes Mr. McInerney, "from the investigations conducted that many suspected Communist union leaders have, in fact, discontinued all overt Communist Party activities or are so circumspect and devious in their activities that their detection has proven impossible. The fact that many Communist union officials have thus gone underground and avoid public manifestations of their connection with the party and its objectives and their belief in its tenets, raises an almost insurmountable barrier to the development of sufficient evidence to warrant prosecution."

That's why the department now wants a stronger law and certainly this is a far better direction in which to proceed than to abandon the non-Communist affidavits and leave the matter up to the unions themselves to handle, for they would have been more difficult than the Department of Justice in getting the facts. The proposed amendment if adopted by Congress would certainly speed up prosecutions.

It is sponsored by Chairman Barden of the House Labor Committee, and would require an affidavit that

"... He is not a member of the Communist Party or affiliated with such party, and that he does not believe in and is not a member of or does not support any organization that believes in or teaches the overthrow of the United States government by force or by any illegal or unconstitutional methods; and that for the preceding 12-month period he has not been a member of the Communist Party, or affiliated with such party, and has not believed in or been a member of or supported any organization that believes in or teaches the overthrow of the United States government by force or by any illegal or unconstitutional methods."

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

The parasites of our native union racket who have been living high on the hog in Europe for years as missionaries among the European heathen, are ballyhooed in expensive subsidized State Department publications which we Americans at home pay for through taxes but know nothing about. It would be hardly fair to me to demand a full roster of their activities. After all, our State Department and the several squandering systems, such as the UNRRA, the ECA, the Marshall plan and the current Mutual Security Agency have been in effect, secret societies from the start. They cover up one another, and when one bureau finally gets exposed and Congress disbands it, the petty bureaucrats already are hired into the next one.

"As one of our ministers in Rome remarked with mocking candor last winter, the only difference between ECA and MSA is in the letters on the doors."

Paul Hoffman, one of General Eisenhower's stalwarts, who ran an automobile agency before he sprang into prominence and power in Washington as administrator of the Economic Cooperation Administration, is coming along fast in a cloud of dust just now as administrator of the mighty Ford Foundation, which has a mountain of money and indefinite international interests. Hoffman is a law unto himself. We do not know Hoffman as well as we should know a man with that much money power. That is why I say he is coming along in a cloud of dust.

We find him bustling around in the Eisenhower show, a king-maker who was a reasonable facsimile of a rank New Dealer only a couple of years ago, and we are wearily willing to accept him as a Republican because we don't know what a Republican is or should be.

I have never met the man but that is not altogether my fault. At least I deserve "A" for effort because I made a careful inquiry, went to his office to ask why he had hired Otto Frankfurter, a jail-bird brother of Felix, as a trusted employee of ECA in a soft job in Paris. I missed Hoffman because he was in Paris himself at the time. They all find business in Paris and Rome. A subordinate told me that the ECA's sifting board had cleared Otto Frankfurter but that the FBI had come up with his record later. By that time, however, he was on the job in the city of light, so for no logical reason that I could understand, Hoffman's grand, privately operated squanderbund decided to let him stick. Nor did this quaint explanation justify to my satisfaction the hiring of the same Otto as a purchasing agent of our government in South America during the war. I can't pretend to understand why the ECA spends money on expensive pamphlet publications printed in English for circulation in Europe where few can read them. Possibly the only purpose is to get more and more money spent. I am thumbing through one at the moment which was sent to me in samples by an American newspaperman. The title is "The Story of Labor in ECA" and the cover is a drawing of two shadowy, and to me, meaningless, figures of men drawn in the standard cartoonists' version of the horny-handed sort of toil.

The subtitle is "shirt-sleeve diplomats" and for 11 pages of photographs, drawings and text we are belabored with parades of the parasites of the union racket on assignment overseas who, in the language of the cult all over Europe, "never had it so good."

The story begins with a boast that within a force of Greek laborers rebuilt 500 miles of railroad in their own country in a measure of time which was fast according to the stalling, dilatory, American union standards, an American unioneer "jumped into the situation with both feet" and compelled the American taxpayers to pay these things on a bonus. It was a patriotic work for their own country and the ECA did not appropriate money for the bonus, and therefore found itself "in a snarl."

This unioneer's argument "speedily reached the top of the ECA, the agency which directs Marshall Plan Aid. The ECA agreed with him and the workers were paid, and the American worker had to earn the money to pay them."

"Those Greek workers were not only pleased with the bonus," the pamphlet said, in English, I remind you and apparently solely for the vanity of the American parasites. "They were elated that labor's part in the U. S. aid program was not just a front. That the result was entirely different from what the opponents of Marshall Plan would have liked to see can be attributed to American labor's share in the plan's administration. In every Marshall Plan country, the interests of labor are guarded and furthered by a shirt-sleeved diplomat, an experienced AF of L or CIO trade unionist, who heads the labor division of the ECA in that country, as Paul G. Hoffman told an American union convention in June, 1950:

"these people—the free people—are to be completely immunized against communism—or any other kind of 'ism'—they must have tangible proof that democracy is the better way of life."

This praise of "democracy" by an ostensible Republican should be heresy but it is now familiar argon in Republican politics. But let him seem unable to remember at times that he is the Republican, not the Democratic, candidate.

GRAVITY OF TROUBLE IN IRAN

Three recent developments in Europe and the Middle East deserve attention from the standpoint of mutual defense. They are not all directly related to each other, but they each bear importantly on the delicate balance of power in that part of the world.

First is the news from Washington, backed up by reports from European capitals, that things could be better with the North Atlantic Treaty Organization program for rearming Europe.

It appears that original goals for some countries will not be met. England, caught in another of a series of economic crises, has indicated her defense production program will have to be rejigged in favor of more consumer goods.

France, too, is having serious money trouble, what with carrying on an expensive war in Indo-China, among other things, and it seems all too likely that she will not be able to meet her NATO quotas.

But while the material substance of the European defense program may be thinning out, the moral side has gotten a boost with the ratifying by the United States Senate and the British Parliament of the peace contract with West Germany.

That's encouraging, although it still remains for the French and West German governments to ratify. Many Frenchmen still have a deep fear of Germany, and of the independence and potential strength which the contract would give the Bonn government.

Some of the German Social Democrats want even greater strength than would be provided under the contract and may try to hold out for it before ratifying.

There may be some rough sledding ahead in these two countries, but the beginning made in England and in this country marks the way and sets a strong example to be followed.

Meantime, far away to the southeast in Iran, there has developed a situation whose potential seriousness to the Western nations cannot be underestimated.

Iran, the oil-vital country directly bordering Russia on the south, has set up a strongly nationalistic government which is voicing strong opinions against both England and the United States.

Unofficial demands have been made for this country to withdraw both its military advisers and officials of our Point Four program, which we were counting on to make us friends. And now the Iranians have restated their claim to Bahrain Island, in the Persian Gulf, which is under British protection and whose rich oil lands are operated by American capital.

If Russia should take over Iran it would mean she had divided Europe from the Far East, had obtained for herself warm-water ports and the rich Iranian oil fields, and was in a position to seriously threaten American oil holdings in that part of the world.

The moderate, independent London newspaper, "The Observer," says on the subject: "Of all the countries in the world Persia (Iran) seems most likely to fall under Communist domination by the Russians in the near future . . . it is not exaggerating to say that the danger of events leading to a third world war is greater in Persia than in Germany, Yugoslavia, Korea, or Indo-China."

Those are serious words from a thoughtful and respected newspaper. Surely there still is time and a way to deal with Iran along lines which can lead to peace instead of war.

Obscured vision was a factor in one out of every eight of the fatal automobile accidents last year, according to the National Safety Council.

Nearly half of the visual obstructions were rain, snow or sleet on the windshield. A fourth of the obstructions were trees, buildings and other things along the highway or adjacent to it. The remaining fourth resulted from parked and moving cars.

Glare from headlights or the sun was reported infrequently. Out of 20 states reporting interference with vision, 11 reported

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

CASTLE GARDEN

My father was an immigrant from Bialystok which was then in Russian Poland. I thought of that the other day when I received a pamphlet from our park department in New York with illustrations showing how they had beautified Battery Park. That was the first bit of America that my father saw when he landed on these shores from a steerage boat.

In his day, an old fortress there was called "Castle Garden," and the immigrants passed through it in hordes. That was when this country was in need of population and encouraged those who were hungry or frightened to come to America.

The most fantastic stories were told in Europe about the United States. To the immigrants, such as my father, it was a "goldene medina"—a "kingdom of gold." And literally, it was such, for while they lived in slums and worked unbelievably hard, their plight was better than anything they had known in the old country. And that is why they came here.

My father was a refugee from a pogrom. He ran away from social, economic and spiritual deprivation. He wanted to worship God according to the traditions of his ancestors. He was a devoted religious man, steeped in the lore of his faith, incapable of understanding life without it. Bread one could earn anywhere; liberty was hard to come by in his day.

Millions came, as he did, to build a new life in this country. I was brought up in this environment of hopeful people. They found life tough, particularly the adjustments of language and customs. And they suffered heartaches as their children moved away from them spiritually in the assimilating processes then catalyzing the sons and daughters of immigrants into Americans.

All of us were at least bi-lingual then. We spoke what was called, the mother tongue, Yiddish, Russian, Polish, Italian, German, and what not. And we also spoke English, which our parents did not know, but which we got in the public schools and on the sidewalk. And there, too, we learned about the United States, its customs, its traditions, its institutions.

The children of those immigrants, first generation Americans, were jealous of their privileges. They were reared to regard the United States as a Promised Land. They were inspired in the schools to patriotic fervor. They were intolerant of anyone who even suggested that any other country could be equal to the United States. This was their country.

In later years, when times were better and young people went through school and college without hardships, when the third generation was living on the fat stored by their immigrant ancestors, they could not quite grasp the intensity of the emotions of the immigrants of the period between 1880 and 1890. The new generation were complainers; nothing was good enough for them. But the old folks, they knew where they came from and why they were thankful.

My father, never learned English. He lived in a ghetto atmosphere by choice. He preferred to be among his own kind and regarded it as a privilege to be able to do that without fear. His greatest joy was the free practice of his religion without danger or shame or humiliation. Yet, he voted in every election and devoted himself to an understanding of the issues and the personalities about which he read in the Yiddish newspapers which then flourished as excellent journals. He was an independent in politics, as were so many immigrants like himself. That was before the politicians welded them into political blocs.

I am sure that no immigrant in those days ever thought of himself as being part of a minority. They would not have known what it meant. They were Americans. To have called my father "a minority," would have been as insulting as to call him a sheenie. He had run away from Europe because there he was part of a minority; he came here because in America all people were Americans, all belonged to the same nation; all were equal in the eyes of the government. My father, the rabbi, and Father Louis, the priest, our neighbor and friend, we were all the same kind of people only we worshipped the same God differently. That he could understand—but minority, pfui, that would have reminded him of the old country. That was no good! (Copyright, 1952, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

THE AGING PROCESS

Now that there are more elderly people in the world than any other single group, the elderly themselves, their families and family physicians are giving the matter of care of this group thorough study.

One of the first thoughts in treatment of the elderly is to help them to keep up their morale. Once they feel that they are too old to do any physical or mental work, they lose their interest in work and in people. It is the feeling that they are still of use to their family and to the community that helps to keep them going.

However, although their morale must be maintained, they should be made to realize that, notwithstanding their desire and willingness to be useful, they are really aging, as do all human beings, and must not attempt the physical or mental tasks of their younger days.

In various parts of this and other countries, surveys of elderly patients in hospital are being made. This is with the idea of making sure that hospital treatment is necessary and more beneficial than home or rest-home nursing and treatment.

In the British Medical Annual, Dr. Marjory J. Warren states that the follow-up of surveys of the aging in hospital is most important as "there can be no general improvement until there is a better understanding of the needs of the elderly sick patient and a greater knowledge of the physiology (body workings) and psychology (brain and emotional workings) of old age."

"It must be fully recognized that senescence is the normal process of aging and that this is a general, a gradual and a slow process. It consists of a 'running down' of the human organism, with lessening of physical strength and a tendency to slower movement, and to less activity; with a lessening of the sharpness of the senses, a lessening in the powers of mental concentration and a desire for longer periods of rest with more time to reminisce than to become interested in new subjects."

The thought, then, for those interested in care of the elderly is to remember that the aging process is gradual, not sudden. Any sudden change is most likely to be due to some ailment or disease, not to the aging process itself.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—The question of using just exactly the right ingredients of Harry Trumanism in the coming presidential campaign is one of the most delicate problems facing Adlai Stevenson et al.

They can use too much whistle-stopping and get the same result that H.S.T. got in Missouri last week when his candidate for the Senate was snowed under. Or they can use too little and run the risk of getting Mr. Truman sore.

There has been no comparable situation since 1928 when Herbert Hoover, then secretary of commerce in the Coolidge cabinet, ran for president ostensibly with Coolidge's blessing. Actually there was much bad blood between them, as there's always likely to be when the old monarch watches young royalty reach for the throne.

There's been no bad blood between Truman and Stevenson—so far. But there could be. Unquestionably the President was piqued when Stevenson held back, at first refused to run. Unquestionably also, it was smart tactics on Adlai's part. He had to get away from the idea that he was Truman's man.

"3. The control and regulation of the development of the newly discovered eastern Venezuelan oil fields. This was accomplished partly by the re-creation of Mene Grande as a joint enterprise, partly by the production quota system, and partly by the merging of a major portion of the eastern Venezuelan holdings of Mene Grande and of Standard (N. The Justice Department has now called a special grand jury to probe allegations that American oil companies may be violating the law by combining with the British and Dutch. However, it appears doubtful that the Sherman Antitrust Act has been violated, since the oil operations have taken place outside the United States.

Mr. McInerney told the Senate committee that because the present law is couched in the present tense and the maker of an affidavit merely is required to swear that he "is not a member" of the Communist party and that he "does not believe" it is a simple matter "for an individual to discontinue, formally, the prohibited membership, affiliation and conduct and execute the prescribed affidavit on the next day and thus circumvent the law."

Mr. McInerney confirms that there is in existence a statute which can be used to prosecute evaders under the present law, but that the difficulties of getting satisfactory evidence are multifold. The law provides that "whoever in any matter within the jurisdiction of any department or agency of the United States knowingly and willfully falsifies, conceals or covers up by any trick, scheme, or device a material fact, or makes any false, fictitious or fraudulent statements or representations, or makes or uses any false writing or document knowing the same to contain any false, fictitious or fraudulent statement or entry, shall be fined not more than $10,000 or imprisoned not more than five years, or both."

The Department of Justice further reveals that during the past year 68 cases involving suspected false affidavits have been referred to U. S. attorneys in 19 different judicial districts. Almost all of these are still under active and continuing investigation. Fourteen have been presented already to grand juries, and in 13 cases the maker of the alleged false affidavit has himself been brought before the grand jury. One has been indicted.

"It is apparent," writes Mr. McInerney, "from the investigations conducted that many suspected Communist union leaders have, in fact, discontinued all overt Communist Party activities or are so circumspect and devious in their activities that their detection has proven impossible. The fact that many Communist union officials have thus gone underground and avoid public manifestations of their connection with the party and its objectives and their belief in its tenets, raises an almost insurmountable barrier to the development of sufficient evidence to warrant prosecution."

That's why the department now wants stronger law and certainly this is a far better direction in which to proceed than to abandon the non-Communist affidavits and leave the matter up to the unions themselves to handle, for they would have been more difficult to get the facts. The proposed amendment if adopted by Congress would certainly speed up prosecutions.

It is sponsored by Chairman Barden of the House Labor Committee and would require an affidavit that:

" . . . He is not a member of the Communist Party or affiliated with such party, and that he does not believe in and is not a member of or does not support any organization that believes in or teaches the overthrow of the United States government by force or by any illegal or unconstitutional methods, and that for the preceding 12-month period he has not been a member of the Communist Party, or affiliated with such party, and has not believed in or been a member of or supported any organization that believes in or teaches the overthrow of the United States government by force or by any illegal or unconstitutional methods."

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

The parasites of our native union racket who have been living high on the hog in Europe for years as missionaries among the European heathen, are ballyhooed in expensive subsidized State Department publications which we Americans at home pay for through taxes but know nothing about. It would be hardly fair to me to demand a full roster of these fellows and a summary of their activities. After all, our State Department and the several squandering systems, such as the UNRRA, the ECA, the Marshall plan and the current Mutual Security Agency have been, in effect, secret societies for the start. They cover up one another and when one bureau finally gets exposed and Congress disbands it, the petty bureaucrats already are hired into the next one.

As one of our ministers in Rome remarked with mocking candor last winter, the only difference between ECA and MSA is in the letters on the doors.

Paul Hoffman, one of General Eisenhower's stalwarts, who ran an automobile agency before he sprang into prominence and power in Washington as administrator of the Economic Cooperation Administration, is coming along for a new job just now as administrator of the mighty Ford Foundation, which has a mountain of money and indefinite international interests. Hoffman is a law unto himself. We do not know Hoffman as well as we should know a man with that much money power. That is why I say he is coming along in a cloud of dust.

We find him bustling around in the Eisenhower show, a king-maker who was a reasonable facsimile of a rank New Dealer only a couple of years ago, and we are wearily willing to accept him as a Republican because we don't know what a Republican is or should be.

I have never met the man but that is not altogether my fault. At least I deserve "A" for effort because I made a careful inquiry, went to his office to ask why he had hired Otto Frankfurter, a jail-bird brother of Felix, as a trusted employee of ECA in a soft job in Paris. I missed Hoffman because he was in Paris himself at the time. They all find business in Paris and Rome. A subordinate told me that the ECA's sifting board had cleared Otto Frankfurter but that the FBI had come up with his record later. By that time, however, he was on the job in the city of light, so for no logical reason that I could understand, Hoffman's

"Those Greek workers were not only pleased with the bonus," the pamphlet said, in English, I remind you and apparently solely for the vanity of the American parasites themselves. "They were elated that labor's part in the U. S. aid program was not just a front. That the result was entirely different from what the opponents of Marshall Plan would have liked to see can be attributed to American labor's share in the plan's administration. In every Marshall Plan country, the interests of labor are guarded and furthered by a shirtless diplomat, an experienced AF of L or CIO trade unionist, who heads the labor division of the ECA in that country, as Paul G. Hoffman told an American union convention in June, 1950."

If these people—the free people—are to be completely immunized against communism—or any other kind of "ism"—they must have tangible proof that democracy is the better way of life.

This praise of "democracy" by an ostensible Republican should be heresy but it is now familiar jargon in Republican politics. But like himself seems unable to remember at times that he is the Republican, not the Democratic, candidate.

INCONSIDERATE DIETING GUESTS

A reader this morning asks: "Will you please say something in your column about the dieting house guest? Within the past few months I have had three different guests stay with me for several days—each on a completely different but equally strict diet. Not one told me beforehand about his (or her) food restrictions until they came to the table. What a disappointment to a hostess who has gone to a great deal of trouble to prepare a nice meal, to have her guest eat a very little of it. Also, pictures that had been planned had to be changed after the guest arrived. Should not the hostess be told beforehand of the situation so that she can plan accordingly?"

The answer to this is that when you are invited to stay in someone's house you should write and accept by saying, "I will come with great pleasure if you don't mind my being on a diet. I don't eat starch of any kind (or whatever it is). In spite of this if you would like to have me, I would love to come." Then the hostess can plan accordingly.

Disappointment for All
Dear Mrs. Post: My four-year-old daughter was asked to be a flower girl in a wedding. When the time came for her to enter the church she sat down and began to cry and had to be removed from the scene. I felt terribly about this as the bride had gone to the expense of having her dress made and also presented her with a gold locket. Should I offer to return the locket and also to pay for her dress since she did not take part?

Answer: I think you should offer to pay for the dress and your child can wear it for a party dress. The locket is a gift and should not be returned.

Not Appetizer
Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please settle a discussion that is turning into a heated argument? I always refer to the appetizer on a menu as the "entree." My girl friend insists that "entree" is the main dish.

Answer: The entree is not the main dish. Entree is an extra course generally rather fancy, eaten between fish and meat or meat and salad. But nowadays in many restaurants the word "entree" means main dish.

Is it permissible to cut a leafy salad with a knife? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail, but her leaflet E-19, "Table Rules of Importance," will help you. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to her c/o The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

London, Aug. 11 (AP)—A miniature train jumped its track and crashed into a tree yesterday, killing a year-old baby girl and injuring 19 other joyriding passengers. Ailing Jordan King Is Set to Abdicate Crown

Beirut, Lebanon, Aug. 11 (AP)—Mentally ailing King Talal I of Jordan was reported planning to abdicate today or tomorrow in favor of his eldest son, Crown Prince Hussein. The prince, now a student in England, cannot assume royal powers until he is 18 next spring.

Informants in contact with the Jordan government first told of the abdication plans. Beirut diplomatic and government sources and high Jordanian officials have confirmed them.

The 41-year-old Talal reportedly is suffering from schizophrenia (split personality).

REV. ALEXANDER WACHTEL

"God guides the sincere" was the theme of the address given by Rev. Alexander Wachtel Sunday at the Kingston Church of the Nazarene. By recollection, the Rev. Mr. Wachtel told of his conversion from Judaism to Christ in a revival conducted by the Kingston Church of the Nazarene about 12 years ago. He said that prior to his inner spiritual transformation, he was intellectually converted to his new faith.

Following his conversion, the Rev. Mr. Wachtel worked in Kingston a short while. Later he enrolled in Eastern Nazarene College, and upon graduation, continued his studies in the Nazarene Theological Seminary in Kansas City, Mo., where he received his B. D. degree.

Next week, he and Mrs. Wachtel will leave for Israel where the Rev. Mr. Wachtel will assume duties as pastor of the First Church of the Nazarene in Jerusalem. His parents and many relatives live here in Kingston.

The blood is needed for men wounded in Korea and for plasma to be stored for use in any atomic attack.

Child Is Killed

London, Aug. 11 (AP)—A miniature train jumped its track and crashed into a tree yesterday, killing a year-old baby girl and injuring 19 other joyriding passengers. The little gasoline-run engine, its three open coaches packed with about 40 parents and children, was chugging around a lake at an amusement park when it derailed and smashed into nearby trees. Three other amusement trains have wrecked in Britain in the past three years, killing one person and injuring 27 others.

VA Wants Quick Action for Korea Vets' Education

F. William Sheehan, officer in charge, Veterans Administration office 286 Fair street, says that quick action to prevent any delays in providing education or training for veterans under the new Korean GI Bill has been taken by General Carl R. Gray, Jr., administrator of Veterans Administration.

General Gray announced he has formally requested the nation's 48 state governors to appoint agencies within their states to handle approval of schools and business establishments for training eligible veterans.

The new law specifies that schools and training establishments must have state approval before they may offer training to veterans who served since the outbreak of Korean hostilities. This requirement also was a part of the original GI Bill for World War 2 veterans.

General Gray requested "early receipt" of the lists of state approving agencies, so that the Veterans Administration can start handling veterans' applications before August 20—the date the new training program goes into effect.

May Use Same Agency
He suggested to the governors that the same approving agency may be designated for the Korean GI Bill that already has been doing the job under the earlier World War 2 act. He pointed out that a state may have either one agency to handle all types of approvals, or separate agencies to approve various types of training—classroom, on-the-job, apprenticeship or on-the-job.

The governors were reminded that the law allows VA to reimburse state approving agencies "for reasonable and necessary expenses of salary and travel incurred in rendering necessary services under this Act." Once an approving agency is appointed, it will be sent a contract proposal for reimbursement of expenses.

Sheehan said that approval granted to schools and training establishments under the original World War 2 GI Bill does not carry over for training under the new Korean Act. Schools and establishments must be reinspected and re-approved for Korean GI Bill training, since in many cases they must meet different standards than those required under the earlier law.

What Bill Provides
To make certain that post-Korean veterans will be able to enroll in training without delay, General Gray urged the states to approve first those courses which are accredited, since they do not demand extensive investigation.

The new Korean GI Bill provides up to 36 months of training to veterans who were active duty on or after June 27, 1950—the date of the outbreak of fighting in Korea—regardless of where they served. While in training, they may receive an allowance from the government to cover part of their expenses.

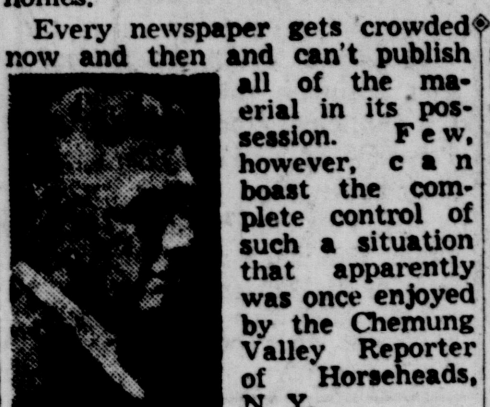

Sheehan cautioned eligible veterans with service since June 27, 1950 that no allowance may be paid for any training taken prior to August 20, the law states, as per provisions of the new GI Bill. Applications for education and training benefits while not available at the present time are expected to be received in the local office any day.

By FRANK TRIPP

Almost everybody gets a kick out of the slips and screwy items that get into print; so much so that many publications gather and reprint them. In type, as in life, often the biggest laugh was not intended to be funny. Out of the past, my faded files contain some homes.

Nature cooperated with the editor to this extent: "A number of births and deaths have been postponed this week on account of the overcrowded condition of our space."

When the express messenger set a freezer of ice cream off the train at Spencer, N. Y., by mistake rather than let it spoil, the station agent gave the town a free treat. Which moved the Spencer Needle to express its profound appreciation:

"The editor was treated to a dish of Auburn ice cream this week. If we are allowed to be the judge, it was as fine an article of ice cream as was ever tasted in Spencer. The first shipment was sent here by mistake but Mr. Shirley has decided to handle it continuously."

Lucky editor!
Reporters and writers don't always agree and are free about saying so in the privacy of their sanctum sanctorum. The Corning, N. Y., Leader once believed in letting its readers in on the professional differences of its staff. It printed:

"Correspondent No. 1 of the West Borden news wishes to correct some errors in Correspondent No. 2's news: Lena Howard is not cleaning house for Mrs. Winnie Wildrick; neither did Ora Hull call on Miss Howard Sunday evening."

The confusion which beset Miss Howard was nothing compared to what happened to the Baileys of Covington, Pa.

They finally got straightened out nicely in the columns of the Covington Sun; and, no doubt, records in heaven were so corrected that the wrong parties were not kept waiting at the pearly gates. The Sun squared itself thusly:

"In the list of revival converts last week, it should have been Mr. & Mrs. Will Bailey instead of Mr. & Mrs. Dwight Bailey."

No punches were pulled in the small town politics of 50 years ago. There was frank and brutal discussion of men and methods in both debate and press. Since his posterity is numerous, it's better to substitute a fictitious name for the busy Republican who drew the following retraction of his death notice from the local Democratic weekly—better to omit the paper's name too. The duped editor was roused to say:

"There is a law that it's illegal to give false news to a newspaper. This applies as much to the telephone as to the United States mails. Somebody, who some day we'll track down and bring to court, telephoned this office just at press time last week that Oscar Dibble was dead."

"Knowing he was sick, and hoping the news was true, we printed it in good faith. It's no secret to our readers that we've never had any truck with Dibble or his political chicanery; and we don't take back anything we said about him in his premature obituary."

"We'd let the matter stand as printed except that people will learn soon enough that, for some devil's reason, fate has spared this political wart to further pester our community."

"Correction:—Oscar Dibble is not dead—so beware!"

And I'm not forgetting the time back in "boilerplate" days, when our leading society dame cancelled her subscription because we got her name under a picture of Lydia Pinkham.

Jet Pilot Missing

Falmouth, Mass., Aug. 11 (AP)—Air force Capt. Hobart R. Gay, Jr., 28, son of army Maj.-Gen. Hobart R. Gay, was listed as missing today in the crash of his jet fighter plane in Vineyard Sound. The air force pointed out he is not listed as dead because neither he nor his plane have been found and a possibility exists that he was not killed. Capt. Gay was flying an F-94 all weather jet fighter when he was seen going down yesterday. He is a veteran of 105 aerial combat missions in Korea.

New York, Aug. 11 (AP)—Strikes in the first six months of this year caused a loss of 1,840,000 man-days of work in New York state, the State Mediation Board said yesterday. This amounted to 0.29 per cent, according to Merlyn S. Pitzele, chairman of the board, who announced the figure.

There is such a wide variety of things that can be entered including canned and baked goods, clothing, apparel, clothing with decorative stitchery, needlework and handwork of all kinds, furnishings, rugs, toys, stuffed animals and dolls, and flower arrangements, Mrs. Powers said.

"It is not too late to enter some of your specialties and compete for some of the many prizes," she added. The entry fee in the Home Department ranges from 10c to 50c depending upon the article.

The Ulster County Fair will be held at Forsyth Park August 20 and 21. The fair will open at 10 a.m. Wednesday and will close at 10 p.m. On Thursday the hours will be from 10 a. m. to 5 p. m. The Home Department has its exhibits in the pavilion.

Refinishing Leaders Attend Second Lesson

The Ulster County Home Bureau refinishing and slip cover leaders attended the second lesson August 6 and 7 respectively. The lessons are being held at the municipal auditorium in Kingston under the direction of the county home demonstration agent, Miss Everette Parsons.

Refinishing leaders will meet August 13 and slip cover leaders will meet August 14 for their third lesson.

Stock Pile Rule Isn't Confusing

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

"Please explain the rule that applies after the last card of the stock pile has been taken," requests a Portsmouth, Ohio, reader.

"In a recent game, the player at my right took the last card of the stock pile. He discarded a king, which I promptly picked up for a meld. This left no cards at all in either the stock pile or the discard pile."

"I then discarded a ten. My opponents had already melded five tens. If the next player picked up the ten, she would have to discard one of the three cards in her hand—and any of them would have given our side a natural canasta."

"What is the rule in this situation? Is she obliged to pick up the ten even though that will force her to make a costly discard? Or does she have a choice in the matter?"

Let's begin by answering the question. The player is obliged to pick up the ten even though that forces her to make a costly discard. She has no choice.

Now let's examine the entire rule. When a player takes the last card of the stock pile, the game may proceed. It doesn't automatically end.

Let's suppose that North draws the last card of the stock pile and discards a king. It is now East's turn to play.

If East can take that king and add it to a meld that he already has on the table, he must pick the king up; he has no choice. This would not be so, of course, if the discard pile were frozen, for then East would need a fresh pair of kings in his hand. But if the pile is unfrozen, and the discard matches a meld on the table, East must take the pile.

Suppose East has no meld of kings on the table, but he does have a pair of kings in his hand, or perhaps one king and a wild card. Must he pick up that discarded king? No. He may pick up the king or refuse it, just as he pleases.

If East has no way at all of melding the king, he naturally cannot act. And if East has kings in his hand (but not on the table) and chooses not to take the pile, he likewise does not act. In such a case the hand comes to an end.

If East takes the pile and discards, the same rule now applies to South (the next player). She must take the card if it matches a meld that she has on the table.

She may refuse to act if it matches cards in her hand that are not on the table.

If South fails to act (which is permissible if the discard does not match one of her previous melds), the hand ends at once. If she picks up the discard and melds it, (the next player) in the same situation. This continues until somebody melds out, or legally fails to act. Each player in turn may be obliged to pick up a discard and then discard. These forced discards may be very costly at times. There is one exception to the rule. A player with one card in his hand may never take a discard pile that consists of only one card. If this situation is brought about after the stock pile is exhausted, the hand ends immediately.

Mr. Jacoby is unable to answer individual questions on Canasta from readers. However, he will include the most frequently asked questions in his column.

Stock Pile Rule Isn't Confusing

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

"Please explain the rule that applies after the last card of the stock pile has been taken," requests a Portsmouth, Ohio, reader.

"In a recent game, the player at my right took the last card of the stock pile. He discarded a king, which I promptly picked up for a meld. This left no cards at all in either the stock pile or the discard pile."

"I then discarded a ten. My opponents had already melded five tens. If the next player picked up the ten, she would have to discard one of the three cards in her hand—and any of them would have given our side a natural canasta."

"What is the rule in this situation? Is she obliged to pick up the ten even though that will force her to make a costly discard. She has no choice."

Now let's examine the entire rule. When a player takes the last card of the stock pile, the game may proceed. It doesn't automatically end.

Let's suppose that North draws the last card of the stock pile and discards a king. It is now East's turn to play.

If East can take that king and add it to a meld that he already has on the table, he must pick the king up; he has no choice. This would not be so, of course, if the discard pile were frozen, for then East would need a fresh pair of kings in his hand. But if the pile is unfrozen, and the discard matches a meld on the table, East must take the pile.

Suppose East has no meld of kings on the table, but he does have a pair of kings in his hand, or perhaps one king and a wild card. Must he pick up that discarded king? No. He may pick up the king or refuse it, just as he pleases.

If East has no way at all of melding the king, he naturally cannot act. And if East has kings in his hand (but not on the table) and chooses not to take the pile, he likewise does not act. In such a case the hand comes to an end.

If East takes the pile and discards, the same rule now applies to South (the next player). She must take the card if it matches a meld that she has on the table.

She may refuse to act if it matches cards in her hand that are not on the table.

If South fails to act (which is permissible if the discard does not match one of her previous melds), the hand ends at once. If she picks up the discard and melds it, her discard now puts West (the next player) in the same situation. This continues until somebody melds out, or legally fails to act. Each player in turn may be obliged to pick up a discard and then discard. These forced discards may be very costly at times.

There is one exception to the rule. A player with one card in his hand may never take a discard pile that consists of only one card. If this situation is brought about after the stock pile is exhausted, the hand ends immediately.

Mr. Jacoby is unable to answer individual questions on Canasta from readers. However, he will include the most frequently asked questions in his column.

Poughkeepsie Americans Capture District Three Little League Crown

Defeat KAA Nine, 5-4 In 8-Inning Contest

Having been balked by the Poughkeepsie Americans in Saturday's finals of the District 3 tournament, 5 to 4, in a thrilling small fry classic that lasted eight innings, the KAA Little Leaguers go back to their regular league chores today.

A sixth-inning collapse by the KAA defense enabled Poughkeepsie to score two unearned runs for a 4-2 lead and set the stage for a dramatic last-inning rally by the KAA's to deadlock the regulation score at 4-4.

Danny Steltz and Deke Johnson, the Bridge City relief pitcher, stopped the opposition cold in the seventh inning, but the Americans broke through for the winning marker in the eighth when Steltz nicked the leadoff batter with a stray pitch.

It was a toughie for the KAA's to lose, a game they had apparently won at the end of four innings. But Steltz faltered ever so slightly in the closing stanzas and the Kingston defense sagged with him.

Stan Disbrow Wins Rhinebeck Feature; Steve Danish First in Arlington '100'

Stan Disbrow of Poughkeepsie took his second feature race of the season at Rhinebeck Speedway Saturday night.

Starting in fifth position, Disbrow quickly barged into second place and overhauled Dee Carlson on the 21st lap when the leader blew a tire, almost went over the fence and did considerable damage to his car.

At the re-start Disbrow had to bring out the best in his No. 95 to repel challenges by Larry Shurter of West Shokan and Russ Truelove, who staged a sharp duel for second place.

At the finish, Shurter and Truelove were so close that a dead heat was demanded by the fans who were dismayed when the officials, who watch wheels instead of car bodies, ruled that Truelove was the second place winner.

Truelove and Shurter agreed to share second place money and to stage a match race next Saturday.

Burt Traver of Rhinebeck won the amateur non-Ford, 12-lap run. Later Vinnie Becker and Bill Annette staged a flip demonstration, both flipping successfully at the first attempt and driving off under their own power.

A.R.D.C. midjet auto races headed by "Dutch" Schaeffer will appear at the Speedway on Sunday, Aug. 17, at 2:30 p. m. NASCAR stock car races are scheduled Saturday night.

The three qualifying heat winners Saturday night were Byron Fisher, Larry Shurter and Dee Carlson. The semi-finals went to Hoppy Jensen and Larry Shurter, with Vinnie Becker copping the consolation.

Dodgers Trip Giants In Esopus Loop, 7-6

The Dodgers averted a near-fatal collapse in the sixth inning to shade the Giants, 7 to 6, in Saturday's Esopus Little League feature at Ross Field.

Trailing 7-4, the Giants came to life with two outs in the sixth to score a pair on Ken Shaver's single, an error on Carl Van Wert and Paul Thomas' double.

The victory was the Dodgers' first against two second-round losses.

Dick Terpening pitched all the way for the Dodgers, yielding 10 hits and striking out four, to gain the decision over Charlie Whitaker.

Whitaker was nipped for a single marker in the first and a four-run cluster in the second. The Giants made their first big play with a trio in the third.

Charlie Watson drilled "3 for 3" for the Giants, all singles, while Paul Thomas pounded two doubles and Ken Shaver hit a double and single.

John Brice led the Dodgers with a single and double and Larry Goodison stroked two solos. Pete Hill, Dodger left fielder, furnished the fielding gems with three nice catches.

The Dodgers take on the unbeaten, league-leading Indians in Tuesday's game.

Having been balked by the Poughkeepsie Americans in Saturday's finals of the District 3 tournament, 5 to 4, in a thrilling small fry classic that lasted eight innings, the KAA Little Leaguers go back to their regular league chores today.

A sixth-inning collapse by the KAA defense enabled Poughkeepsie to score two unearned runs for a 4-2 lead and set the stage for a dramatic last-inning rally by the KAA's to deadlock the regulation score at 4-4.

Danny Steltz and Deke Johnson, the Bridge City relief pitcher, stopped the opposition cold in the seventh inning, but the Americans broke through for the winning marker in the eighth when Steltz nicked the leadoff batter with a stray pitch.

Stan Disbrow Wins Rhinebeck Feature; Steve Danish First in Arlington '100'

Stan Disbrow of Poughkeepsie took his second feature race of the season at Rhinebeck Speedway Saturday night.

Starting in fifth position, Disbrow quickly barged into second place and overhauled Dee Carlson on the 21st lap when the leader blew a tire, almost went over the fence and did considerable damage to his car.

At the re-start Disbrow had to bring out the best in his No. 95 to repel challenges by Larry Shurter of West Shokan and Russ Truelove, who staged a sharp duel for second place.

At the finish, Shurter and Truelove were so close that a dead heat was demanded by the fans who were dismayed when the officials, who watch wheels instead of car bodies, ruled that Truelove was the second place winner.

Truelove and Shurter agreed to share second place money and to stage a match race next Saturday.

Burt Traver of Rhinebeck won the amateur non-Ford, 12-lap run. Later Vinnie Becker and Bill Annette staged a flip demonstration, both flipping successfully at the first attempt and driving off under their own power.

A.R.D.C. midget auto races headed by "Dutch" Schaeffer will appear at the Speedway on Sunday, Aug. 17, at 2:30 p. m.

NASCAR stock car races are scheduled Saturday night.

The three qualifying heat winners Saturday night were Byron Fisher, Larry Shurter and Dee Carlson. The semi-finals went to Hoppy Jensen and Larry Shurter, with Vinnie Becker copping the consolation.

Bowling Meeting

The City Minor Bowling League will meet Tuesday at 8 p. m. at Ferraro's Bowldrome. All franchise holders and others interested are invited. There will be an election of officers.

Steve Danish of Cropesville, proved again that he has the fastest sportsman model in stock car racing, by driving to a sensational victory in the 100-lap Eastern States championship before a capacity crowd Saturday at Arlington Speedway.

Dan Hanis of West Palm Beach led for 21 laps in a scorching duel with Herb Mason of Newburgh, Doug Benjamin, a consistent Arlington winner, took the lead from Hanis on the 22nd lap but relinquished to Danish on the 25th lap.

Danish clung grimly to the lead in the second half which featured spectacular bids by the crack field, but Hitsman made a desperate bid near the end but Danish had just a little too much in reserve.

Hitsman finished second, followed by Herb Mason, Hal McCarty and Stan Bomba in that order.

The extra large field of cars necessitated four qualifying heats and a consolation event won by Walt Roberts, Johnny Yannon, Bud Hitsman, Ray Miller and Eric Wallenberg.

The added attraction, "The Race of Doom" where six cars were wrecked on purpose by deliberate wild crashing was considered the best to date and another is scheduled next Saturday night.

Arlington Speedway will present a 200-lap Grand National Late Model Pleasure Car championship on Sunday, Aug. 17. This event is open to any driver with a 1948 through 1952 model American make. Time trials start at 8 p. m. Sunday. Saturday night stock car races get under way at 8:30.

WHEN TO STRIKE IN BAIT FISHING WITH WORMS

IF A FISH GRABS HARD AND BEGINS A FAST RUN DOWN-STREAM, DON'T FEED HIM LINE BUT STRIKE AT ONCE. OTHERWISE HE WILL FEEL THE ABRUPT CHECK OF THE LINE (YOU CAN'T PAY IT OUT AS FAST AS HE CAN SWIM), AND HE'LL SPIT IT OUT!

Dodgers Trip Giants In Esopus Loop, 7-6

The Dodgers averted a near-fatal collapse in the sixth inning to shade the Giants, 7 to 6, in Saturday's Esopus Little League feature at Ross Field.

Trailing 7-4, the Giants came to life with two outs in the sixth to score a pair on Ken Shaver's single, an error on Carl Van Wert and Paul Thomas' double.

The victory was the Dodgers' first against two second-round losses.

Dick Terpening pitched all the way for the Dodgers, yielding 10 hits and striking out four, to gain the decision over Charlie Whitaker.

Whitaker was nicked for a single marker in the first and a four-run cluster in the second. The Giants made their first bid with a trio in the third.

Charlie Watson drilled "3 for 3" for the Giants, all singles, while Paul Thomas pounded two doubles and Ken Shaver hit a double and single.

John Brice led the Dodgers with a single and double and Larry Goodison stroked two solos. Pete Hill, Dodger left fielder, furnished the fielding gems with three nice catches.

The Dodgers take on the unbeaten, league-leading Indians in Tuesday's game.

The SCORE Board

By RALPH RODEN
(Associated Press Sport Writer)

Bill Veeck, happy-go-lucky owner of the St. Louis Browns, today was enjoying a laugh at the expense of his old pal Hank Greenberg, general manager of the Cleveland Indians.

Greenberg recently charged the major's master showman of trying to knock the Indians out of the American League pennant race by trading "good" players to the Chicago White Sox.

"He seems to want to embarrass us and make our job tougher at every opportunity," Greenberg added.

Greenberg's lament became a reality yesterday as the lowly Browns "embarrassed" the pennant-hungry Tribe by beating Bob Lemon, 6-3.

A victory would have moved the Indians to within a game of the pace-setting New York Yankees but by missing the boat the Indians dropped two games back. The Yanks and third-place Boston were rained out.

In other American League games, Philadelphia and Washington swapped 4-2 decisions and Chicago captured a doubleheader from Detroit 3-1 and 5-4.

Dodgers By Eight
Rain curtailed action in the National League, wiping out games between Brooklyn's front-running Dodgers and Philadelphia, and the runner-up New York Giants and the Boston Braves. The Dodgers thus held fast to their fat eight-game bulge.

In the games played, Chicago swept a double-header from Pittsburgh's tail-end Pirates, 9-5, and 4-3, and St. Louis and Cincinnati divided a twin bill. The Cards won the opener, 3-2, and the Reds the nightcap, 4-2.

Cleveland's defeat was doubly bitter as a former Tribe man, Fred Marsh, accounted for the deciding runs with a three-run homer in the fourth inning. Bobby Cain went all the way to post his eighth victory while Lemon was charged with his ninth loss.

Agile Con Marrero bested Bobby Shantz, top candidate for the American League's most valuable player award, in the opener at Washington.

The Senators clipped Shantz, who was gunning for his seventh straight victory and 21st of the season, for ten hits. The A's managed to collect only five safeties off Marrero's "nothing ball." Marrero helped his own cause by driving in two runs. Rookie Harry Byrd, relieved in the eighth by Bob Hooper, picked up his tenth triumph in the second game.

The White Sox collected only eight hits in their sweep over Detroit but, like Chicago's hitless wonders of 1906, they got them when it counted. They made only three hits in the opener but one was Sam Mele's 11th homer and the other two doubles by Hector Rodriguez, who drove in one run and scored another. Chicago bunched three hits and two walks for three runs in the first inning of the second game and added two more in the fifth on a pair of passes and two safeties.

The Cubs "spoiled" the major league debut of Ron Necia, minor league strikeout sensation, in the opener at Pittsburgh. Necia, who astounded the baseball world by striking out 27 batters last May while pitching a no-hitter for Bristol, Tenn., in the Class D Appalachian League, was rocked for seven runs and 11 hits in six innings. Chicago's Hank Sauer hit his 28th homer.

Veteran Ken Raffensberger blanked the Cards until the ninth in the first game at Cincinnati but Dick Sisler climaxed a three-run rally with a two-run single. Dutch Hiller checked the Cards on five hits in the second game.

Without waiting for the new "cycle" to alleviate the vast emptiness of municipal stadium, simon pure baseball, the kind that endears itself to "local rooters," is having a bit of a fling for itself.

The agenda lists an Aug. 27 date between the Kingston Patrolmen's Association worthies and Newburgh Police and a companion feature between the Police's local Fraternal Youth League squad against the Newburgh PAL squad.

Before that, on Aug. 20, the Brooklyn Dodger Stars of Tomorrow, with Buck Lai and "Turk" Karem in, meet Andy Murphy's juniors in a revival of the series that caused some excitement in 1948 and 1949.

Looking further ahead there is that Sept. 7 date between the Kingston and Saugerties Old Timers at Saugerties, a promotion headed by Les Brink.

Such baseball may not meet the exacting requirements of the die-hards but it figures to create a lot of fun for a lot of people. The fans will not be hard in their judgment and will have a realistic approach to these exhibitions. The Junior-Brooklyn contest may develop into a brilliant contest if Kingston can muster sufficient pitching strength. Maybe Jerry Bechtold and George Telepas can stand off the powerful array of scholastic and college stars under the Brooklyn banner.

The Police game and the Old Timers may result in a lot of horse-play and some moments of mechanical brilliance on the diamond. Better that way than have a set of imported baseball goons go through the motions of a professional ball game and race home with the loot.

If there is any salvation for Kingston baseball, it is several years away. When the cradle-to-stadium cycle has been completed, there may be so much topnotch baseball talent at our disposal that Kingston fans will demand a medium of post-graduate expression. Like a revival of a home-town semi-pro team on the scale of the original Colonials and the Receptions.

"At least we won't get shut out this year," said a die-hard referring to the Aug. 20 contest.

The gentleman was correct. He didn't even follow with the oft-asked, unanswerable question of: "When do you think baseball will return to the stadium?"

It could be next year, but don't bet on it. Not when a brave adventurer like Fred Davi decides to pass. It will happen when the next cycle occurs. Just when . . . your guess is as good as mine.

The Brooklyn will throw a couple of famous college basketball personalities against the Kingston juniors in the persons of the famous O'Brien twins—Jack and Ed—of Seattle University. Jack O'Brien made national sports headlines when he scored more than 1000 points during the 1951-52 college basketball season. He is a third baseman.

His brother, Eddie, the basketball playmaker, is a centerfielder. Both O'Briens hit well over .400 for Seattle University during the 1952 baseball season. They have all the tools for major league baseball—great throwing arms, exceptional running speed, good fielding and solid hitting.

● Robinson Has Equipment—and Nerve:
Charley Drensen, who will definitely be accused of prejudice by Giant rooters, rates Jackie Robinson as one of the greatest competitors in baseball history.

"He's the best base-runner in the game," says the Dodger manager. "He was caught in run downs twice in 1951, but managed to reach base safely. He scored both times and we won because he wouldn't give up."

Robinson reminds me of a sign I once saw in the locker room of a football team.

"We supply the equipment. You supply the guts."

Robinson doesn't need a sign like that. He has both.

Chez Emile-Boulevard Game Postponed; Gulfmen Face Wiltwyck Motors Tuesday

Wet grounds forced postponement of Sunday's City League feature between Chez Emile and Boulevard Gulf and left two league officials with a problem of playing 13 games between Tuesday and Aug. 27 the official closing date of the second half.

Sunday's postponement was the third in the second round in which only seven of the 10 scheduled dates have been played.

Action resumes Tuesday with Wiltwyck Motors battling Boulevard Gulf to retain mathematical chances for the second half.

The Motormen are only one game behind the league-leading Jones Dairy and Wiltwyck Motors in the important lost column.

The SCORE Board

By RALPH RODEN
(Associated Press Sport Writer)

Bill Veeck, happy-go-lucky owner of the St. Louis Browns, today was enjoying a laugh at the expense of his old pal Hank Greenberg, general manager of the Cleveland Indians.

Greenberg recently charged the major's master showman of trying to knock the Indians out of the American League pennant race by trading "good" players to the Chicago White Sox.

"He seems to want to embarrass us and make our job tougher at every opportunity," Greenberg added.

Greenberg's lament became a reality yesterday as the lowly Browns "embarrassed" the pennant-hungry Tribe by beating Bob Lemon, 6-3.

A victory would have moved the Indians to within a game of the pace-setting New York Yankees but by missing the boat the Indians dropped two games back. The Yanks and third-place Boston were rained out.

In other American League games, Philadelphia and Washington swapped 4-2 decisions and Chicago captured a doubleheader from Detroit 3-1 and 5-4.

Dodgers By Eight
Rain curtailed action in the National League, wiping out games between Brooklyn's front-running Dodgers and Philadelphia, and the runner-up New York Giants and the Boston Braves. The Dodgers thus held fast to their fat eighth-place bulge.

In the games played, Chicago swept a doubleheader from Pittsburgh's tail-end Pirates, 9-5, and 4-3, and St. Louis and Cincinnati divided a twin-bill. The Cards won the opener, 3-2, and the Reds the nightcap, 4-2.

Cleveland's defeat was doubly bitter as a former Tribesman, Fred Marsh, accounted for the deciding runs with a three-run homer in the fourth inning. Bobby Cain went all the way to post his eighth victory while Lemon was charged with his ninth loss.

Ageless Con Marrero bested Bobby Shantz, top candidate for the American League's most valuable player award, in the opener at Washington.

The Senators clipped Shantz, who was gunning for his seventh straight victory and 21st of the season, for ten hits. The A's managed to collect only five safeties off Marrero's "nothing ball." Marrero helped his own cause by driving in two runs. Rookie Harry Byrd, relieved in the eighth by Bob Hooper, picked up his tenth triumph in the second game.

The White Sox collected only eight hits in their sweep over Detroit but, like Chicago's hitless wonders of 1906, they got them when it counted. They made only three hits in the opener but one was Sam Mele's 11th homer and the other two doubles by Hector Rodriguez, who drove in one run and scored another. Chicago bunched three hits and two walks for three runs in the first inning of the second game and added two more in the fifth on a pair of passes and two safeties.

The Cubs spoiled the major league debut of Ron Necciai, minor league strikeout sensation, in the opener at Pittsburgh. Necciai, who astounded the baseball world by striking out 27 batters last May while pitching a no-hitter for Bristol, Tenn., in the Class D Appalachian League, was rocked for seven runs and 11 hits in six innings. Chicago's Hank Sauer hit his 28th homer.

Veteran Ken Raffensberger blanked the Cards until the ninth in the first game at Cincinnati but Dick Sisler climaxed a three-run rally with a two-run single. Dutch Hiller checked the Cards on five hits in the second game.

Chester Emile-Boulevard Game Postponed; Gulfmen Face Wiltwyck Motors Tuesday

Wet grounds forced postponement of Sunday's City League feature between Chester Emile and Boulevard Gulf and left two league officials with a problem of playing 13 games between Tuesday and Aug. 27 the official closing date of the second half.

Sunday's postponement was the third in the second round in which only seven of the 10 scheduled dates have been played.

Action resumes Tuesday with Wiltwyck Motors battling Boulevard Gulf to retain mathematical chances for the second half bunting.

Middlecoff and Boros Tie With 276s; Playoff Today for $25,000 Golf Prize

MIDDLECOFF SPTS. HD
Chicago, Aug. 11 (AP)—National Open champion Julius Boros and golf's wealthiest stoker of 1952, Cary Middlecoff, met today in an 18-hole playoff for golf's biggest prize, the $25,000 top payoff of the "world" meet.

The showdown (2 p. m., EST) will resolve the deadlock Middlecoff and Boros created by finishing the $90,000 Tam O'Shanter show yesterday with identical 276s, 12 under par.

Some sharp bickering marked the high-pressure chase after Promoter George S. May's rich endowment, which includes a $12,500 second-spot bundle for the loser of today's playoff.

Three players—Dave Douglas, Jack Burke and Ed Furgol, who shared lesser loot—complained that Middlecoff slowed up proceedings 45 minutes to accommodate televising of the finish. This trio protested that the delay ordered by meet sponsors, cooled off their games as they stood around leaning on their clubs.

They claimed that Middlecoff, plus Chick Harbert and Bill Ogden in the same threesome, should have been penalized two strokes under game rules for delaying play.

But both meet and PGA officials said the slowup was the privilege of the sponsor and besides, the Middlecoff threesome finished in four hours when 4 1/2 hours was the scheduled playing time per threesome.

Douglas was the foremost finisher in the post-Middlecoff threesome, winding up at 279 in a fifth place tie with pre-meet favorite Sammy Snead, to collect $2,350. Douglas shot a closing 68.

Third spot, a stroke behind the deadlocked Middlecoff and Boros, was shared by Argentina's Robert De Vicenzo and the 36-hole leader, Jim Ferrier, who each pocketed a tidy $4,000 for their 277s.

Top Seeded
Manchester, Mass., Aug. 11 (AP)—Maureen Connolly of San Diego, Calif., United States and Wimbledon women's tennis champion, today was seeded first in the field of 32 for the 25th annual Essex Country Club tourney opening tomorrow. The 17-year-old net sensation was seeded just ahead of Doris Hart of Coral Gables, Fla., who upset Miss Connolly in the semi-finals of the Eastern championships last Saturday in South Orange, N. J. Miss Hart won the Essex Country Club crown last year.

Hutton Tops List For Fire Mechanic

Fireman James H. Hutton, of 15 Wynkoop Place tops the eligibility list for department equipment mechanic, the Municipal Civil Service Commission announced today.

Hutton, who has been serving as mechanic on a temporary basis since the retirement last year of Charles Brown, led the list with 92.9 per cent. Fireman Howard Myer, of 304 Greenkill avenue was second with 89.9 and Robert L. Maines was third with 81.1 per cent.

The examination for the position was held last July 22. An examination to fill the vacancy left by the recent retirement of Capt. E. Wright Maines is scheduled to be held Aug. 16.

Demands Action
Cairo, Egypt, Aug. 11 (AP)—Premier Aly Maher demanded last night that Egypt's political parties cleanse themselves of corruption or face extinction. The man who put him in office, Maj. Gen. Mohammed Naguib, followed up today with a call for legislation to raise "the people's living standards."

Naguib already had warned in an interview Saturday that if political parties didn't clean their own houses, the army might interfere. Maher in a broadcast last night called for a "radical transformation" in the political groups to make leaders responsive to the will of the party rank and file.

Fierce Storm Hits Jersey
Freehold, N. J., Aug. 11 (AP)—A freak storm powered by winds up to 82 miles per hour spanked Monmouth county for two, turbulent minutes yesterday. In the time it takes to don a raincoat, the speedy squall tore off roofs, flattened trees, kayaved power lines, flooded roads and damaged equipment at nearby McGuire Air Force Base. Despite the ferocity of the storm, however, no one was reported injured. The blow centered in Monmouth, but offshoots clobbered parts of Ocean and Burlington counties with high winds and heavy rains.

Better Health Now
Washington, Aug. 11 (AP)—A health study shows the nation's death rate dropped nearly 45 per cent during the first half of this century while life expectancy increased. "All ages have shared in the improvement in health," said a book published yesterday by the Brookings Institution, a private research organization. The 1900 death rate of 17.2 per 1,000 persons was compared with 9.6 per 1,000 in 1950. A decline was noted in diseases like pneumonia and similar respiratory maladies, but increases were recorded for disorders like cancer and other malignant tumors.

Plans Are Completed

Breakdown Shows Half of New York Aids in CD Work

More than one-half of New York state's population has been involved directly or indirectly in Civil Defense training exercises, according to figures released to the Kingston Office of Civilian Defense by Lt. Gen. C. R. Huebner, state CD director.

Local communities in the state, on their own initiative, during the past two years have held more than 800 individual training exercises involving more than 400,000 CD workers and more than 8,300,000 persons, Gen. Huebner announced.

The total of over 80 exercises does not include the 11 major training exercises that have been held in nine communities at the direction of the state commission, he explained. These state CD ordered exercises alone involved more than a half million CD workers and several million of the population. The current Ground Observation Corps "sky-watch" is not counted as a training exercise but as an actual operation.

Most of the individual training exercises scheduled on their own by local organizations have been air raid warning tests, communications, police service, fire service and control center exercises. Others have included medical, welfare, rescue, transportation, warden, mutual aid and radiological training.

Ridgway Says War Threat Is Big as Ever on Continent

Supreme Headquarters Allied Powers in Europe, Aug. 11 (AP)—Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway said today the threat of war is still as big as ever, and there are serious weaknesses in the west's buildup to meet this threat.

The supreme commander of allied forces in Europe told a news conference there was doubt as to whether the western allies could reach their 1952 goal of 50 divisions—25 active and 25 in reserve—and 4,000 planes.

Ridgway also said he favored two years' military service—something European nations are to discuss in Paris tomorrow amid indications they will not adopt it. Belgium has already been hit by strikes protesting her two-year draft term.

Serious Deficiency Cited
Ridgway, former United Nations commander in Korea, took over the SHAPE command in May from Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower. "The most serious deficiency to date," Ridgway said, is the SHAPE buildup in the logistics field.

The problem of building warehouses and depots is a serious one, he said.

Farouk Likes His Eggs—Eats 10 Plus Other Items

Isle of Capri, Italy, Aug. 11 (AP)—Ex-King Farouk ate 10 eggs for breakfast today.

After eating five eggs soft-boiled for 3½ minutes, the unemployed royal exile from Egypt wiped his chin and called his waiter.

"They're very good," he said, "prepare five more."

Then, he added in a lower voice: "I like eggs."

The ex-king, now known as Prince Farouk Fuad, included toast, marmalade, butter and a large cup of coffee with his breakfast at his hotel.

Hotel Bill Is Cut
Nicola Farace, owner of the hotel, meanwhile slashed his bill by another 50,000 lire ($80) a day in an effort to get quick payment from the royal tenant and his party.

Originally, Farace had asked 250,000 lire ($400) a day. But, when the ex-king complained it was too high, the hotel owner reduced the bill by 50,000 lire a day. Farouk still balked at paying 200,000 lire ($320) for the third floor apartment and roof garden reserved for him and his party.

Farace said he needs quick payment because his expenses are mounting daily.

Water Bill Goes Up
The hotel owner said that, since Farouk arrived, he has had to spend an average of 20,000 lire a day for drinking water. The island has no drinking water of its own and must import it from Naples.

Because the ex-king likes to take "very hot baths," Farace said he has to buy extra coal to keep the boilers at full pressure.

Two Persons Decline Aid After Accident
Carlton Curtis, 29, who gave his address as 23 Pearl street, and Marjorie Struber of Chambers street, were slightly injured but declined medical attention following a one-car accident at Eddyville at 4:25 a. m. Sunday, the sheriff's office reported.

Deputy Sheriff Albert Eisele reported that the automobile, driven by Curtis, came off the Eddyville bridge and at the right turn at the intersection of Route 213 and the Creek Locks road skidded a distance of 40 feet down an embankment and turned over. The automobile, described as a "total wreck" came to rest with its roof against a tree, and its occupants had to break a window in order to get out, Eisele's report stated.

Queen's Cousin Robbed
London, Aug. 11 (AP)—Burglars got antique gold and silver valued at 500 pounds ($1,400) in a night raid on the country home of Maj. James Bowes-Lyon, cousin of Queen Elizabeth II, police reported today. It was the second robbery at Sennicotts House, Chichester, Sussex, since the Bowes-Lyon family bought it eight years ago.

Underpass Floods In Sunday's Storm

Sunday's rainfall of 2.51 inches in the city again flooded the Broadway underpass but caused no other serious trouble.

The rain was heavier in the city than in the Ashokan reservoir area where records of the New York city water department showed only 1.46 inches.

A police report at 12:44 p. m., Sunday, said the underpass was flooded and "five cars were stranded in high water."

The public works department was notified.

Another report at 1:01 p. m., said there was also a flooded condition at Smith avenue and Grand street.

18th Barge to Be Launched Tuesday
Island Dock Inc., will launch its 18th craft since Jan. 1 at 9 a. m. tomorrow.

The army steel deck cargo barge to go into the Rondout creek tomorrow is designated as BC 6163. It is the 13th of the 110-foot type and will be sponsored by Mrs. A. Virginia Kearney of 290 Wall street, a secretary in the navy inspection office at Island Dock.

Paul O'Dwyer, 46, of James street, Rosendale, received a lacerated forehead and possible leg injury when the automobile he was driving ran off the road and into a deep hollow one mile east of Rifton about 3:45 a. m. Sunday, state police reported. Troopers said O'Dwyer was taken to Kingston Hospital for treatment.

CD Recruiting Is Still in Progress

County-wide recruiting of volunteers interested in radio work in connection with Civil Defense communications is continuing with the cooperation of both city and county CD offices, it was announced today by Robert J. Kreines, deputy city defense director in charge of public information.

Classes meet every Monday and Thursday at 7:30 p. m. at the Civil Defense office in the city hall for instruction in radio communications. Successful completion of the course will entitle applicants to a license under CD to operate radio communication system.

Additional volunteers for the course will be accepted. They may report to the Civil Defense office at the city hall at the times scheduled for classes.

Kreines pointed out that, in addition to providing a vital link in the communications network, local volunteers for this work will receive valuable training in a field that for many provides a profitable and enjoyable hobby. Previous experience is not required of those who volunteer. The course, if taken privately, would be an "expensive proposition," Kreines said.

Canal Street Man
address was given in care of his sister, Irene, at 610 East 136 street, the Bronx.

Vredenburg and Brown, with Assistant D. A. Abernethy, continued the investigation, and claimed that they found some of the drowned man's personal effects on Jones. The authorities claimed that after questioning Jones admitted that the lighter and watch were LaValle's.

LaValle's body, which was still here this morning, is to be shipped to New York for funeral and burial, in accordance with instructions of the sister.

Police records show that Jones, a five-foot, 11-inch tall, 165-pound hotel worker, had two previous felony convictions, authorities said.

Truman Welcomes Acheson

Campaign of Contrasts:

er's first days as a political campaigner:

The retired general, early in June, shed his uniform and went back home to Abilene, Kans., to make his first major speech. The Abilene show, it is well known, was a disappointment to most of Eisenhower's supporters.

There was a feeling in many places the "real Eisenhower" didn't emerge at Abilene—that the warmth and charm and personality of the man hadn't been transmitted either by radio or television to millions of Americans.

Eisenhower was disappointed, too. So a few days later in Detroit he threw away his prepared speech and talked in the way he wanted to talk. Then he went on to Denver to open his headquarters at the Brown Palace Hotel.

Air Reported Amateurish
There was an amateurish air around that early headquarters. There was no doubt among those watching that Eisenhower was feeling his way in a strange new world.

This man who had directed Allied armies to victory in Africa and Europe was confronted with new problems and he frankly admitted he didn't know all the answers to political questions. He often gave the answer: "I don't know."

Eisenhower made it clear he was leaving the political maneuver and strategy to men who had had years of experience in this world to which he was a new-

another "amateur"—Chicago lawyer Stephen Mitchell—approved as the new Democratic National Committee chairman. Again he took a firmer grasp on his own campaign maneuvers and strategy.

Unlike Eisenhower, Stevenson has the political adroitness to say "I don't know" in several ways. For example, when a reporter recently asked him a question on a technical point in the reciprocal trades program, his reply was not "I don't know"—but "I'll have to be educated on that."

It's a small point but it does reveal the difference in the political foot-work of the two at this early stage.

Stevenson has kept his headquarters small since winning the nomination. There are some who say privately he's trying to direct a national presidential campaign as though he were merely running again for governor.

There is some doubt being voiced that the "amateurs" around Stevenson have enough experience for a national campaign. But Stevenson shows no signs of being worried about this. Stevenson is friendly and witty in gatherings. But he leaves the impression that he never quite lets down his guard and that he is never completely relaxed among strangers. He chooses his words carefully in everything he says.

Says Candidates

Congress then is whipped together for delivery early in January.

Since the new president won't take over until Jan. 20, Sen. Joseph C. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) said he thinks the budget message probably will have to be delayed.

In 1932 Herbert Hoover, the retiring Republican president, invited Franklin D. Roosevelt, then president-elect, to discuss the country's problems with him. But Roosevelt declined.

Democrats said they have no doubt that if their nominee, Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson of Illinois, is elected he will play a major part in helping frame the presidential messages usually sent to Congress in January.

The same Democrats were guessing that if Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, the Republican nominee, wins in November President Truman will invite him to discuss the messages and make any suggestions he chooses.

In the Republican camp, National Chairman Arthur Summerfield announced his campaign headquarters will begin full scale operations this week.

Campaign of Contrasts:

er's first days as a political campaigner:

The retired general, early in June, shed his uniform and went back home to Abilene, Kans., to make his first major speech. The Abilene show, it is well known, was a disappointment to most of Eisenhower's supporters.

There was a feeling in many places the "real Eisenhower" didn't emerge at Abilene—that the warmth and charm and personality of the man hadn't been transmitted either by radio or television to millions of Americans.

Eisenhower was disappointed, too. So a few days later in Detroit he threw away his prepared speech and talked in the way he wanted to talk. Then he went on to Denver to open his headquarters at the Brown Palace Hotel.

Air Reported Amateurish
There was an amateurish air around that early headquarters. There was no doubt among those watching that Eisenhower was feeling his way in a strange new world.

This man who had directed Allied armies to victory in Africa and Europe was confronted with new problems and he frankly admitted he didn't know all the answers to political questions. He often gave the answer: "I don't know."

Eisenhower made it clear he was leaving the political maneuvering and strategy to men who had had years of experience in this world to which he was a newcomer. He made it clear, too, that he was going to work through the regular Republican party organization.

Frankness Outstanding

To reporters, Eisenhower appeared to be at his best in small groups. Then the Eisenhower charms exerted itself. He was relaxed and at ease—and he showed he liked people. He talked freely with reporters in private gatherings. And often his frankness was enough to make an old-line politician shudder.

On the other side, Stevenson has demonstrated he knows his way through the political forest. He has moved adroitly and with the precision of a smooth professional in familiar surroundings.

Stevenson's first speech accepting the Democratic nomination was hailed by his supporters as a literary gem. They thought it was so good that re-prints and rebroadcasts have been made.

The first move of importance Stevenson made was to shift control of his campaign from the Democratic National Committee. He named his own campaign manager—Wilson Wyatt of Louisville, Ky.—and thus drew away from the old-line party leaders rather than moving toward them.

another "amateur"—Chicago lawyer Stephen Mitchell—approved as the new Democratic National Committee chairman. Again he took a firmer grasp on his own campaign maneuvers and strategy.

Unlike Eisenhower, Stevenson has the political adroitness to say "I don't know" in several ways. For example, when a reporter recently asked him a question on a technical point in the reciprocal trades program, his reply was not "I don't know"—but "I'll have to be educated on that."

It's a small point but it does reveal the difference in the political foot-work of the two at this early stage.

Stevenson has kept his headquarters small since winning the nomination. There are some who say privately he's trying to direct a national presidential campaign as though he were merely running again for governor.

There is some doubt being voiced that the "amateurs" around Stevenson have enough experience for a national campaign. But Stevenson shows no signs of being worried about this.
